MR. BRAGA ON CABARETS

REPRODUCING SHANGHAI NIGHT LIFE

FEAR FOR ILL EFFECTS ON YOUNG PEOPLE

Describing cabarets as things which "undermined" the physical and mental fitness of the younger generation, the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga yesterday told a "Daily Press" representative that if he had his way, he would close all cabarets and "dancing academies."

"I have seen enough of this sort of thing in Shanghai," said Mr. Braga. "There, night life is intolerable. You have nervous breakdowns, you have pale and anemic boys and girls whose only ideas are rounds and rounds of pleasure. They become poorly fitted for the ordinary day's work."

HOW "OBJECTIONABLE PART" MAY START

Our representative who was very courteously received by Mr. Braga began the interview with: "What did you think of the replies by the Inspector General of Police at today's Council Meeting?"

Mr. Braga: They were very much to the point and quite frank. They were expressive of no views for or against cabarets. In the statement which is now in course of preparation undoubtedly fuller particulars will be given.

Question: It is the opinion of many people who have been to these cabarets that they are filling a much needed want. Do you agree or disagree with this view?

Answer: I disagree. These places are enjoying quite a good business and I have seen people from all sections of the community patronizing them.

A: I am not voicing the views of any one section of the community. I do not wish to be misinterpreted. I am not considering my own section of the community.

Q: Quite so. But these cabarets are supported by many people of quite good standing in the community. I have seen lawyers and doctors and other professional men there from time to time. Would they support these cabarets if in fact they are the evil you say they are?

A: Don't forget, I asked if the Government were aware that these places were a danger to the young and inexperienced people who were exposed to the evils of these cabarets.

Q: What sort of people would you describe as "young and inexperienced?"

A: I mean the youth of today who are on the threshold of life. The people who are starting out in life.

What Restrictions?

Q: What sort of restriction have you in your mind?

A: First of all time. Then there is the question of the people who are engaged as dancing partners in these places. They ought to be people whose characters are above reproach, not all sorts of manner and condition of women.

Q: Would you suggest Police supervision?

A: Certainly, that is the thing. If I had my own way, I would not have the cabarets. I say that dancing is sufficiently catered for by the recognised establishments in the Colony.

Q: Do you really think that the ordinary working man can afford to go dancing at the Peninsula or Repulse Bay Hotels frequently?

A: That is where you are wrong. On the score of expense a man spends far more in these cabarets than in the established places for dancing where you bring your own partner.

Q: How can you say that?

A: I will tell you how. In the cabarets the dance lasts two to three minutes each and a dance cost thirty cents. Supposing you were there for one hour. In that time you can have as much as twenty dances. That is $6. Add admission money to that and you will admit that on the score of expense the cabaret cannot be defended.

Q: But one can't walk in to the established places for a casual dance. Sometimes one feels like dancing and cannot find a partner. Wouldn't the cabaret solve such a man's problem?

A: The man who can't find a partner is not a man who is in a position of social standing. You can't find a partner in a cabaret. You can't find a partner in a cabaret. You can't find a partner in a cabaret.

Q: Suppose a young man of a high social standing always finds a partner. What is the danger of the cabaret?

A: I object to the danger of the cabaret. I object to the danger of the cabaret. I object to the danger of the cabaret.

trimental to the health of the youth of today. They should be physically and mentally well-equipped for the next day's work.

"Have You Seen To On?"

Q: It seems superfluous to ask this question, but have you ever been to one of the local dancing cabarets?

A: Good gracious, no!

Q: From what you have heard, don't you think the dancing places well conducted?

A: Do you want the stage that is reached in Shanghai where you see bottles flying in the air? If attention is not drawn to the cabarets now in order to provide proper safeguards, what might be an innocent form of pleasure might develop abuses that will call for drastic action later.

Q: You have referred in your questions to the L.G.P. to report on parents? What were the nature of such reports?

A: Parents have reported to me that already the evils of cabarets are being very acutely felt because young people who are breadwinners, and who have hitherto contributed to the family's household expenses, have actually spent so much in this late evening dancing that their indispensable help has been withdrawn. From the economical side, these cabarets are a terrible evil. Mothers have explained, that, not content with dancing, the girls are taken out for joy-rides after the closing hours and there is the beginning of the objectionable part.

No Complaints.

Q: But the Inspector General of Police stated that the Police authorities had received no representations against the cabarets?

A: It will be news to the Government and to the public to know that I had been informed that a group of mothers were contemplating the drawing up of a petition to be presented to the Governor asking for the closure of the cabarets in Hong Kong, and probably further action in connection with the petition has been taken in view of the knowledge that I addressed these questions to the Government.

They should not be tolerated!

Q: What would you do if you had your own way?

A: If I had my own way I would not license cabarets. Mind you, dancing places such as are afforded by the Peninsula and other recognised establishments are quite alright, but the cabarets are not needed at all.

Q: What about the girls who will be deprived of an honest living?

A: What about the mothers who are deprived of the earnings of their sons?

Q: But some of the dancing girls are chaperoned by their mothers. They appear to be earning quite a decent living through dancing?

A: What about the mothers who lose their bread and butter. We didn't have these things here before and these girls have been living all these years without a cabaret.

Q: It seems a bit harsh that the cabarets should be closed down because of the thoughtlessness of a few young men who spend all their money there?

A: These cabarets undermine constitutionally the fitness of the younger generation and should not be tolerated.

Q: You put the younger generation in a position of being inferior to the older generation. Is that the position of the younger generation in the eyes of the older generation?

A: The younger generation is in a position of being inferior to the older generation. The younger generation is in a position of being inferior to the older generation.

Q: Suppose a young man of a high social standing always finds a partner. What is the danger of the cabaret?

A: I object to the danger of the cabaret. I object to the danger of the cabaret. I object to the danger of the cabaret.

GREEN ISLAND CEMENT CO.

Reasons For Temporary Stoppage

DUMPING BY JAPAN

A rumour was gaining ground all day yesterday that the Green Island Cement Company were in difficulties. This is untrue.

On inquiries being made of Mr. J. Scott Harston, the Chairman of Directors, we were informed that the works were closing, temporarily, for a couple of months.

There is no question, of a 'serious situation' or anything of that sort and after that period we expect to be at work again," said Mr. Scott Harston, cheerfully, and he then referred us to one of the Company's officials for further particulars.

When a representative of the Hong Kong Daily Press called at the offices of the Cement Company he was informed that the Company had ceased the manufacture of cement at 2 a.m. that morning. This step was being taken because there was no more storage room in the Company's godowns.

The Green Island Cement Company have big contracts in view both in Canton and Hong Kong, and the stoppage of production will only be temporary, as soon as cement is taken from the godowns manufacture will be resumed.

The trouble has arisen owing to the enormous supplies of Japanese cement which have recently been dumped in the Colony. The Green Island Cement Company do not claim that this Japanese cement is much inferior to their own product, but say that it is sold at an absolutely uneconomic rate—the last shipment in particular being far below any possible production cost, such a state of affairs cannot last long and when the dumping ceases it will be possible to work on a reasonable competitive basis.

In the meanwhile we are informed that there are ample supplies of Green Island Cement to meet any immediate demand, and the supply will be kept up more cement being manufactured as bags and taken from the godown.

on their studies. Would you have all the cinemas closed?

A: In connection with that there is a tremendous amount of laxity that is doing nobody any good.

Q: Then you would like to see, short of total abolition, cabarets where the hours are restricted and the partners of a guaranteed respectable class. You would also like police supervision. Are there any other restrictions in mind?

A: The number of these places ought to be restricted too.

Mr. Braga concluded the interview by repeating once more that the cabaret evil should be checked before it turned into a pest. As it was now nothing short of meeting the place. He said that there was plenty of recreation to be had in Hong Kong and that few places in the Far East afforded such beautiful and magnificent outdoor entertainment as Hong Kong did.

In answer to a pressing question by our representative, Mr. Braga said he felt sure many people did not agree with him but as a public man he welcomed criticism.

DRESS GUIDE FOR 1933

ALL-IMPORTANT LITTLE POINTS

GOLD or silver shoes for evening look well with scarlet, all-black, and all white dresses.

Hosiery and gloves for night should in this case be of pale flesh-shades and tan. A handbag can match the frock.

With smart dark afternoon and cinema dresses, purple and turquoise "kid" shoes and handbag, with matinee cap stressing the two shades, will add a touch of novelty and distinction. The old court pump is still smart, especially in a one-colour.

Coloured gloves are on the wane, but brilliant shades in velvet and kid, might with advantage be bought, to wear with an otherwise completely dark ensemble.

The latest novelties for youth are mittens made of tulle, to meet puffed sleeves of the same. This is a light transparent fashion, charming for a ball, and economical.

Sprays of really beautifully-made flowers are worn in great variety. They must be chosen carefully, and seldom go well near jewels. Over-decoration is bad, consequently the new way of

For sport white heavier bordered variety, Spanish kid belts, fastening with a black in appearance, may adorn the onyx clasp, and shoes of the same brimmed shapes to come, but the leather, are perfect style. finishing the "backless" dresses with a scarf caught with a floral spray is charming, as is a sash cluster. The guy blossoms are then kept well away from neckline and corsage brooch.

Scarves assail us in wonderful colourings at every counter. Choose with great care, both regarding colour and shape, also no one should buy scarves unless they know how and when to wear them. The new scarves will be rather narrow, and composed of spring-like crinkly-crepes, striped in a variety of soft shades to match the crowns of the brimmed straws.

Belts, if of good style and originality, will find a place in the Veils are an attractive vogue, if a little over-done at the moment. The clear meshed nets do assist towards a tidy appearance, and the

For more dressy occasion there are the black and coloured velvet, plain or fanciful, with monogram in paste or ivory.

ROUND THE TOWN

SPRING GOODS IN LOCAL SHOPS

The spring goods are coming in in most of the local shops, new hats, frocks and shoes, and it is possible to forecast the coming fashions to a certain extent, though the early spring collections are never an entirely safe guide, one thing seems evident that the new fashion's generally will be less extreme and more dignified than last year. The woman is to be considered rather than the girl for a change. Shoes have decidedly longer vamps and coloured leather is less in evidence. Hats are wide or medium brimmed, if they are not turbans.

The brimmed models generally have a bandeau to lift them to get the correct angle. Soft greys, blue violets and night blue are very noticeable in millinery. Flowered chiffons have returned to favour, and, with the little shoulder capes that most of them affect, are kind to both the young girl and her mother. Dresses are tailored but on graceful feminine lines: the garconette style is, for the moment at least, quite out of the picture.

An Petit Louvre I saw some lovely hats with wide and medium brims. The Broderie Anglaise theme of last years frocks has now gone up to our hats and down to our shoes. One lovely model hat in pale green crepe de chine embroidered in this style, has two narrow plaits of corded silk as its trimming, another perfect hat of pastel blue fabric straw with a crepe de chine border to the brim has the crown made of "leaves" of straw joined by fancy stichery. Late forms the crown of another green hat with a big brim. Crowns are very shallow and bows in front and at the back to the brim, make the correct tilt.

can be arranged as one wishes, and the twisted ribbon effect which is so often seen on the decolette of the backless evening gowns appears sometimes at the waist and at others to trim the neck line. Among the heavier silk frocks I saw one perfect dress in old gold with a collar of white satin, cut so that it crosses and gives a directoire waist coat effect. Their new hats are mostly smallish shapes, and are designed to match the semi-tailored silk frocks. A new collection of shoes is well worth looking at.

In the Dolly Vardon Hat Shop I saw more of the delicious spring hats. Again soft fabric straws are noticeable and are complimented by soft colours and charming little feather and flower trimmings placed at unexpected angles.

I was particularly interested to see here the first summer frocks. These are decidedly youthful in line and very "wearable" by women of all ages. A series of semi-tailored dresses in plaid silks (plaids are immensely fashionable at the moment), is trimmed with organdie. For example a plaid in tones of tawny red and navy has shoulder ruffles and a sash of navy organdie. Very pretty is a pink silk plaid cut with a yoke, which has short puff sleeves and sash of white organdie. The same crisp material appears as insets in frocks of printed cottons, and gives as always that cool, fresh look which is so desirable in a hot country.

The hats are selling like the proverbial hot cakes, and its little use, my describing any particular one, lots of women are going in and buying two or three at a time which is a wise plan.

price a certain number of odd and sample pairs which you should look over carefully. Gordon's shoes are an investment at any price, and at bargain prices it becomes almost a duty to buy them!

Whiteaway Laidlaw's sale is over and they are opening up new goods. In the furnishing department I was struck by the very reasonable prices of the new shipment of Marple sheets. You know, of course, that Marple sheets are about the best make for real hard wear, which is what they got at the merciless hands of the wash amah! Pillow cases made by Horrockses are well worth their price too. It is a wise move to buy both sheets and pillow cases now, one wants so many in the hot months and when you have to buy the price always seems to have risen!

If you are one of the lucky ones going on leave this spring look in at Whiteaway's and see their cabin and wardrobe trunks; also suitcases all of which seemed to me to be very reasonable in price.

Mode Elegante have both at their Ice House Street Shop, and in the branch at D. Chellaram's in Pedder Street, opposite Hong Kong Hotel, some most attractive early spring hats. These are of the new panama lace straws. They are mostly in dark colours for present use with suits or tailored silk frocks. One finds repeated here again that very fashionable mixture of navy and white or oyster. Navy is also trimmed with scarlet and white and black and white is always smart. Browns this season ally themselves with flame and beige and occasionally with orange. The hats are very reasonably priced from $18 to $22.

A number of nicely tailored crepe de chine dresses are also new arrivals and I saw a few evening frocks of satin which looked smart and modern in line. I believe that Mode Elegante gives great insistence to cut and line and when considering prices they are much more willing to sacrifice trimming than cut. A very wise decision for no amount of dressing up can disguise a bad fit, whereas even a cheap material if well cut and fitted can

London Fashion Notes Our air-mail letter to women

London January 26th

SPRING FASHIONS

Gone are the frills and furbelows and the general untidiness characteristic of last year's fashions. The new Spring fashions are to be neat and business like, though the hardness of outline is relieved by a gay touch of impudence. High necks and plain skirts which are a feature of formal afternoon frocks as well as of simple morning frocks are chiefly responsible for the note of severity, which is emphasised by button trimmings, neat little capes, and the use of pleats instead of flares. Two new notes are the arrival of the three quarter length jumper and of the long or 1 1/2 length coat in crepe or some other dressy material to complete the dress. Some of the new dresses are belted, but a good many of the frocks and long jumpers are merely darted to indicate the waist. Severity relaxes when it comes to the sleeves. Sleeves may be anything provided they are not plain. Many of them start low on the shoulder and finish half way between the elbow and the wrist. Some of them—especially for evening wear—start just above the elbow and end just below it. Short sleeves are worn and leg of mutton is still with us, but the newest kind is full and caught in at the wrist. Some evening frocks show a handkerchief-piece that winds round one arm and so make a sleeve, the other being left bare. For dancing, snoot silk, striped taffeta, and fancy moires are all popular. Satin is used on both the dull and shining side. Velvet sashes and shoes look well with all-chiffon frocks. Jersey brocade and curious velvet jerseys are among the novelties. There is great variation also in the artificial silk range, colours being soft and blended. The old-fashioned quilting has changed the surface of many materials, and we shall have this quilted vogue in silk.

SPRING FASHIONS

Chanel is concentrating on printed chiffons which will be used for evening dresses. They are less of the floral type than in black, printed, perhaps, in a monogram of red and white, or in white with a characteristic seal pattern in Persian red. Linked rings form the pattern of a chiffon with a pale blue ground, and the design is in dark blue and white. All these are rather stylistic, and the chiffon dresses themselves have more definite stylisation than is usually expected of a flowing diaphanous material. One of the late winter edition gowns is made in a deep golden tone of cinnamon brown to wear with a little jacket of pale blue with a blue tulle. Just before the former chiffons were launched this tone of brown was noted as a favourite at Nice, as well as a pale green lace which seemed to forecast an early spring colour note for evening wear. Colouring for this season has a wide range. For those who like blue—and blue suits many people, though by no means as many as is sometimes thought—there is the true 'Paris' blue in all shades and the blue in which there is the least touch of red, like those of bygonis. The old inky blues have disappeared, and if blue has to be sullen, it is like a bruise. Beautiful reds are to be had, redcurrant or red-link, or raspberry, or even Persian. Apple green still invites the unwary, and is more apple than ever, while hennery purple is also to be used for dresses and suits. All the neutral tints are still with us, with attempts to vary the beige to a new clearness.

SUMMER NIGHTS

New checked coarse linens, with embossed lines in green or black, make backgrounds for little shaped capelets designed to rest flat over tailored décolletés and finish off with bow ties. A tiny brown and beige checked linen with the embossed line in beige, make an other tailored evening gown with a low décolleté concealed under a high-necked short-sleeved jacket with wide puff-sleeves of the same material. The skirts for the early summer have not been lengthened, but the waist line is less rigid.

PARIS FASHIONS

On cold days fur coats are worn more than velvet wraps trimmed with fur. By day the soft woollen coat with no fur and cut in softer fashion prevails. Spring fashions will be bright. Dresses made for the South include a spotted light woollen material called djalap in brown and beige with a soft pique collar and flowers in a pale beige; the gloves match the collar, the shoes and bag of brown crocodile leather and the small fitting toque is of brown and beige straw and braid. Short fur coats with basques are worn with evening dresses, ermine being the usual fur. Velvet coats are trimmed with sweeping bands of fur. For the day there are mink capes which fashion on the left shoulder with a velvet bow. Most necklines for the morning are softly folded about the base of the throat, revers to blouses give the pointed neckline very slightly open, and the sling or cowl drape which gives a vaguely rounded line. Light coats and skirts with dark blouses, and light hats are correct. Sash belts with short ends hanging down the side of the skirt, ornamental belts, clips, buttons, and flowers are accessories to consider.

WILD WEST BLOUSES

Simple shirt blouses, something after the pattern of the Wild West cowboy's shirt, are a rage among smart Parisiennes at the moment. Sometimes in check wool or cotton. They have turn-down collars, and ties that are very narrow in the centre and wide at the ends, after the manner of a man's tie. The ties are made of crepe satin, or much newer to go with thin wool blouses of plain or corded velvet. The small turn-down collar is liked because it looks 'guying' and it appears on coats, frocks, blouses, and even little capes.

THE PERFECT BRITISH TAILOR MADE

On all sides we are promised a revival of the classic tailor-made. This type of suit has always been in request among women for race meetings and general country events three of the most famous London houses are showing one suit with outstanding success at the moment. It is a simple classical style with two inverted pleats over either knee and two corresponding ones at back. Another favoured style for town wear is in grey worsted. This is a 'link' button style with braid bound jacket. It is generally predicted that the three-button single-breasted jacket with straight skirt will be the best model for the spring.

WHEN SERVING CHAMPAGNE

Everybody knows that all white wines should be served cold; in fact, slightly iced, which can be done by standing the bottle in ice, but not by putting ice in the glass. The sweeter the wine is the colder it should be. While a few minutes will suffice for a dry Moselle or a Chablis, a very liquorous Sauterne like an Yquem, for instance, will require quite half an hour on ice before serving.

On the other hand, it is a great mistake to serve champagne too cold, as it destroys its quality and its perfume. You cannot judge a really good champagne if it is too much iced, and you might just as well drink any 'Tisane' or 'Mousseux'; you will not notice the difference.

Champagne, more than any other wine, has been through many fashions; it used to be drunk in tall, narrow 'flutes', which were meant to keep the wine effervescent; then the flat 'coupes' came in, and now most people drink it in ordinary large wine-glasses.

Moreover, many champagne drinkers spend their time stirring out of the wine with a 'mossier' the effervescence which the makers have worked hard to create! No doubt the 'flutes' will 'come in' again as the most suitable glass for a wine of that type.

OVER-PRODUCTION IN PRETTINESS

THE STANDARD FACE

Every woman likes to be up to date in her grievances. It is therefore only natural that, with the rest of the world, she is bewailing over-production in one hitherto special commodity. Why is there today so much prettiness and so little beauty?

The answer, it may seem to the discerning, can be found in a curious aspect of that world tragedy of over-production. Never have dress-designers offered more styles to their customers; never have the accessories of beauty-parlours attempted so many varying aids to beauty; never has it been easier to imitate every type of every period, and the result is that women have become dazzled and muddled.

Smart Silhliness.

They will not be contented with the attributes of one particular model. On the few odd feet of surface nature has given them they insist upon crowding all the charms they have ever admired in any or every type of beauty. Wilfully, it would seem, as one gazes round a train-car or a ballroom, they have seized upon the beauties they were never meant by nature to possess.

Here you see a woman whose classic features and pale colouring recall the ivory serenity of a Grecian statue; over her face this anxious candidate for beauty has daubed smudged lotion, and on her lips a slash of crimson suitable only for a gipsy queen. The gipsy queen beside her, however, has quarrelled with her own dark charms and, in the current phrase, has gone platinum blonde.

Girls blessed by nature with the sweet elusive beauty of Italian Madonnas hasten to have their eyebrows plucked and attain a smart silliness, writes W. F. P. in the Manchester Guardian. Matrons with the ample beauty which Rubens loved to paint himself into splendour haggard-necked smartness. The Undine type conceal their elfin prettiness most successfully beneath counts of powder and paint, pricked out with glycerined eyelashes. The day of mask balls is over because every woman now coaxes her face into a mask to conceal her own individual type of beauty.

Nor is it in type and colouring only that woman loses the one in pursuit of the many. Charm has always depended upon expression, and in expression again women fly from model to model. From the films girls carry away visions of the sinister charm of the vamp, the radiant teeth of the sunshine girl, the haughty arrogance of the pampered aristocrat, the petulant charm of the girl who always sins for the best reasons. One may watch the young registering these in quick succession as they powder their noses before their tiny mirrors. Older women less often make this mistake; it is their anxious pursuit of beauty in specialists' salons which makes them acquire vacancy as they lose wrinkles and achieve slimmness at the cost of content and repose.

The Rouge-Red Path.

It may be said that these remarks apply only to the great army of those who make up. But, unfortunately, few women with any claim to beauty resist the temptation to do so, and, having once begun, have the strength of mind not to slide down the primrose, rouged, carnation-lip path to the confusion of their own charms. And their stronger sisters are, there is no doubt, at a disadvantage. The general care of the skin, the usual aids to the complexion do put natural beauty, unadorned, into the shade.

It is of no use to complain. The fast devotees in the world to be made reasonable will be those of fashion. Beauty will undoubtedly survive and emerge again triumphant. This article offers no advice but sympathy only to the young and fair who so effectively to-day conceal their charms.

VISITORS HOME ON LEAVE

A visit should be paid to W. Bill, The Country House, 33 New Bond Street, London, W. 1, who have numerous connections in the east, private and Trade, connected with the Embassies, Utility and Trading Concessions, etc. All classes of materials can be offered by the yard piece or in the form of tailored garments, made to their clients measure, and own ideas of style and character. The firm which was founded in 1848 conducts a Merchant's trade as distinct from that of the retailer or large department store. Special attention may be directed to the firm's general stock of all British pure wool cloths, such as Scotch and Irish Home spun and tweeds, for travel and sport. Scotch Cheviots for warm suitings etc. Welsh Flannel Tweeds for light Colonial wear, English Cashmeres for tropical suitings, and numerous other lines. There is also a vast selection of hand knitted hosiery, cardigans, jumpers, pull-overs etc.

FASHIONS AT THE THEATRE

Miss Celia Johnson wears some attractive frocks in 'Another Language' the play at the Lyric. There is one of leaf green velvet which is rucked at the waist (it looks rather like smoking) giving the effect of a pointed waistband.

Baby's Growth

THE best indication of proper development is a right increase in weight coupled with increase in muscular strength.

At five months Baby should be able to hold his head erect. At seven months he will be able to sit up a while. When ten months he crawls, pulls himself up or stands by a chair.

Do not encourage a child to walk before he does so of his own accord.

to the wearer, the effect of these fur-lined wraps is often quite as alluring as when luxurious fur is used with a lavish hand.

Both the fur-trimmed and the furless wraps frequently have muffs to match. They are small if the sleeves of the coat are long and voluminous, and large enough to be pulled up the arm if the coat sleeves are at the elbow or halfway between the elbow and wrist. Enormous cuffs or 'ruffs' are placed at the elbow on some evening coats, and at the wrist on others.

COLLARS AND CAPES

A great many of the more sumptuous evening wraps are trimmed with fur. Mink is one of the choicer kinds, but fox in different colours is always used a great deal with considerable success.

But some of the loveliest wraps dispense with fur entirely. They may have large draped collars which tie loosely at one side or on one shoulder, or they may have shoulder capes. Others have very high ruffled collars which frame the face agreeably.

With collars of this sort there is usually a repetition of the ruching on the sleeve, possibly just below the shoulder, alternatively at the elbow, and from that point a long thin sleeve continues to the wrist.

INDUSTRY IN CHINA

New Economic Morality
Needed

APPEAL TO EMPLOYERS

Shanghai.—"A new economic morality with the humanisation of industries as its first and basic programme will be able to remove the great majority of troubles between Chinese employers and their workers, and will thus precipitate China's industrial development," declared M. C. H. Lowe, well-known writer on labour questions, at the fifth meeting of the China
Institute of Scientific Management at the Shanghai Union Club.

"With the growth of modern industries in China," Mr. Lowe stated, "paternalistic relationships between employers and employees and traditional moral standards in Chinese economy have become ineffective and are being rapidly discarded. A new economic morality has not yet emerged. Amidst the whirlwind of the industrial revolution,
Chinese employers are too much occupied with other important problems to give adequate consideration to the worker's interests.
He is treated more often as a commodity than as a human being."

"As industries in China become modernised and mechanised, they become increasingly de-humanising,
Low wages, long working hours, gangsterism and other intolerable conditions under which the Chinese labourer is forced to make his living have combined to make him an enemy against his employer."

"Unhealthy State of Affairs."
"Such a state of affairs between the two most vital components of industry is most unhealthy. But it will have no chance of diminution unless and until Chinese employers radically transform their economic thinking, and make heavy sacrifices to reconstruct the present industrial relations and conditions on a more democratic and more human basis. If Chinese employers are unable or unwilling to carry out this process of humanisation the workers will one day enforce their wishes in their own drastic ways."

The speaker suggested that, to remedy these evils, Chinese employers should start a movement to humanise their industries, and boycott those which do not. Humanisation should attain at least the following objectives: a new understanding of the purpose of industry which is to serve, not to enslave man; a greater emphasis on the value of man in our economic organisation and activities; increased personal contacts with the workers; and more "human touch" in industry, thus enlightening the workers as to their functions and duties in modern society, a far-sighted and constructive attitude towards the labour movement, and a decent treatment for the workers, such as reasonable wages and reasonable working hours.

Drop all Nepotism.
Mr. Lowe said that to facilitate this humanisation movement, Chinese employers should drop all nepotism and secure specialists to help them.

"In Europe and America, industrial leaders have long realised that their workers deserve just as much attention as their financial and marketing problems, and have therefore set up special departments to deal with personnel and labour issues.
Chinese employers who wish to reduce labour unrest may also find it profitable to obtain expert guidance in bringing their relations with the workers on a closer and more harmonious foundation."

In closing his address, Mr. Lowe said that in his travels in the country he has already seen a few fruitful experiments in humanising industrial relations, and he hoped that employers in Shanghai will think about his suggestion seriously and try it in their own factories.

"SIX HOURS TO LIVE"

YOUNG ENGLISH STAR IN THE LEAD

"Six Hours to Live," which gives Warner Baxter the most dramatic role of his career on the screen, will be the film feature on the King's Theatre's programme starting on Sunday next.

Sharing top-line honours with Baxter are John Bolls and Miriam Jordan, the latter a beautiful young English actress, who makes her screen debut in this Fox Film production. George Marion, Irene Ware and Beryl Mercer are also in the cast. "Six Hours to Live" was adapted by Bradley King from the original story, "Auf Wiedersehen" by Gordon Morris and Morton Bartaux.

Briefly, it deals with a dramatic episode on international history, in which Baxter, as the representative of a small republic, successfully prevents the efforts of plotters to ruin his country and plunge the world into another disastrous war. The plotters succeed in accomplishing Baxter's death and are prepared to go through with their nefarious scheme, when he re-appears, the hand of death miraculously stayed for six hours by the discovery of an eccentric old scientist, enacted by Marion.

Miss Jordan, in her debut, displays unusual promise and she already has been hailed as a real "discovery." She has played for several years on the London and New York stages, supporting such stars as Herbert Marshall, Edna Best and Philip Merivale. William Dieterle, famous German-American director, produced this picture.

Warner Baxter once repaired type-writers for a living.

John Bolls planned to become a doctor until the discovery that he had an unusual voice, and he decided to become a singer.

Miriam Jordan once won the title of the "prettiest girl in England" at the Wembley Exposition.

William Dieterle, director, was forced to learn carpentry trade against his will and became a stage carpenter.

Just before the development of talking pictures, Warner Baxter was ready to quit pictures in disgust and return to the stage.

Edwin Maxwell was graduated in medicine from the University of Edinburgh but chose to study law instead of a pillbox.

"HAT CHECK GIRL"

"Hat-Check Girl," starring Sally Eilers, which started its run yesterday at the King's Theatre is an amusing and fast moving picture.

The story, though possibly it was announced on the trailer as an epic of a woman's love or something of the sort, is really rather ordinary rubbish, but it is well told and there is plenty of fun and sparkle besides an occasional scene of real humour.

Sally Eilers looks very pretty and appealing as the "Hat-Check Girl" and Ben Lyon plays his none too easy role of her millionaire lover with considerable skill. Perhaps one of the best performances is that of Ginger Rogers as Sally's friend, a little blonde who has no illusions about the sort of people with whom she comes in contact through her work. I should not be surprised if we see quite a good deal of Ginger Rogers in future.

As a means of passing an evening pleasantly, especially if you are feeling rather tired and jaded I recommend "Hat-Check Girl."

There is also in the programme an amusing ski on war film, opera and heroics generally. It is well acted and has some very pleasant singing.

"FIFTY MILLION FRENCHMEN"

COMING TO THE QUEEN'S

Claudia Dell, the blonde Southern beauty, who has the romantic lead in "Fifty Million Frenchmen," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone Technicolor comedy special opening on Sunday at the Queen's Theatre, was induced to try motion pictures by Felix Hughes, well known voice teacher and brother of the celebrated author, Rupert Hughes.

A test resulted in a long term contract with Warner Bros. and the title role in "Sweet Kitty Bellairs." This was followed by the lead opposite Al Jolson in "Big Boy" and the ingenue role in "Sit Tight."

Claudia was born in San Antonio, Texas, and received her education in an English school in Mexico where her father was in business. Going to New York, she was immediately placed in the Follies by Flo Ziegfeld and later became understudy to Irene Dalrymple, who now is also a Warner star. She played the feminine lead in "Merry Mary" in London and upon her return to New York, turned down a contract of two plays to visit her family in California. Then she returned to the Follies.

LOCAL DANCE CABARETS

I.G.P.'S REPLIES TO HON. MR. BRAGA

That the authorities are aware that the number of cabarets in the Colony are increasing and that at present such institutions can flourish without restriction, is the gist of the answers of the Inspector General of Police to the questions put by Hon. North (Deputy Clerk of Council).

Questions About Cabarets.

Mr. Braga's questions were as follows:—
Is the Honourable the Inspector-General of Police aware that cabarets and "dancing academies" so-called are being regarded as a growing social evil in the Colony and are a cause of very real anxiety and dissatisfaction among parents because of the dangers to which they expose young and inexperienced people?
Will the same Honourable Member kindly compile, for the information of this Council, a return showing respectively for Hong Kong and Kowloon:—
(a) The number of cabarets, or "dancing academies" so-called, now carrying on business with the knowledge and permission of the Police authorities;
(b) The premises within which the cabaret business is conducted;

New Church For Kowloon

GOVERNMENT GRANT SITE IN KOWLOON TONG

Mention was made at the annual general meeting of St. Peter's Church, West Point, last Tuesday, of the possibility of a new Church for Kowloon.

In an interview with the Rev. N. V. Halward, our representative was informed that although no definite plans for the Church had yet been drawn up, the Government had already granted a site in Kowloon Tong. This would be in Waterloo Road next to the China Light & Power sub-station.

The idea of an Anglican Church in this part of the mainland had been in mind for several years and it was felt that the expansion of Kowloon, and its increasing population, fully justified the opening of another Church.

St. Andrew's Church was the only other Anglican Church on the mainland but its position in Tsai Sha Tsui was not convenient to the many members of the Anglican community living in Kowloon Tong and the surrounding districts.

St. Peter's Church to be Closed.

Due to its out-of-the-way position, and the shifting of a large number of residents from the West Point district and the forthcoming opening of the New Seamen's Institute at Wanchai, St. Peter's Church at West Point does not receive sufficient support to justify its continued maintenance.

On the other hand the increasing population at Happy Valley has brought about the suggestion either of enlarging the present Church of the Resurrection at the Cemetery at Happy Valley, or closing it in favour of the Church in Kowloon.

Services at the Happy Valley Chapel were started by Rev. N. Watkins, who was formerly at St. Peter's. Mr. Watkins always stressed the need of a Church in the Happy Valley district. His departure, however, has left the question open as to whether services at the Church should continue.

The need for a Church in Kowloon is obvious and the question will be debated at the forthcoming St. Andrew's Church Council meeting, to be held on March 10. A council meeting of the Diocesan Conference takes place on March 14 and the Diocesan Conference assemblies on March 20.

By that time it is hoped that it will be definitely decided as to the new Church in Kowloon, and it is hoped that the idea will receive the support of the Diocesan Conference.

The Rev. N. V. Halward will probably be chosen as the first incumbent pastor of the new Church, and will reside in Kowloon Tong. Mr. Halward is very hopeful of the success of the venture and has contemplated various associations, clubs, and Scouts and Girl Guide troops to be run by the Church. The building itself will, however, probably not be started for another two years.

THE FIRST FLOATING FIRE ENGINE

LOOKING BACK 50 YEARS

The new floating fire engine has at length been completed by the Hong Kong and Whampoa Dock Company, and has been handed over to the Fire Brigade ready for use. On Saturday afternoon she left the dock premises, and ran a trial trip of two miles, and it was then found she could easily exceed her contract speed of six knots per hour. After her speed had been tested, the fire extinguishing gear was set to work, and performed to the most complete satisfaction of everyone concerned. The engine has, however, had many a trial before, when it has satisfactorily acquitted itself, being the engine for some time known as the No. 1 Engine, the most powerful one in the Colony. It was always an unwieldy thing to move to fires, but now with its ready means of moving and suction arrangements already fixed, we expect to find it the first one to get to work in any conflagration.—Hong Kong Daily Press, February 17, 1933.

TWO YEARS' HARD LABOUR

FOR OLD OFFENDER

Leung Cheung was sentenced by two Magistrates (Mr. Butters and Mr. Balfour) at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday to two years' hard labour. The charge against him was snatching a wallet containing $7.50 from the pocket of a man who was standing near the doorway of No. 107, Temple Street yesterday. He denied snatching, but admitted stealing the wallet. Defendant had a bad record showing six convictions.

KIDNAPPING CASE AT KOWLOON

FURTHER REMAND ORDERED

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, Mr. Butters ordered a further weeks remand in the case of which a woman named Wong Fan and two men Wong Kong and Wong Ho Lun are charged with unlawfully detaining two boys under 14 years of age.

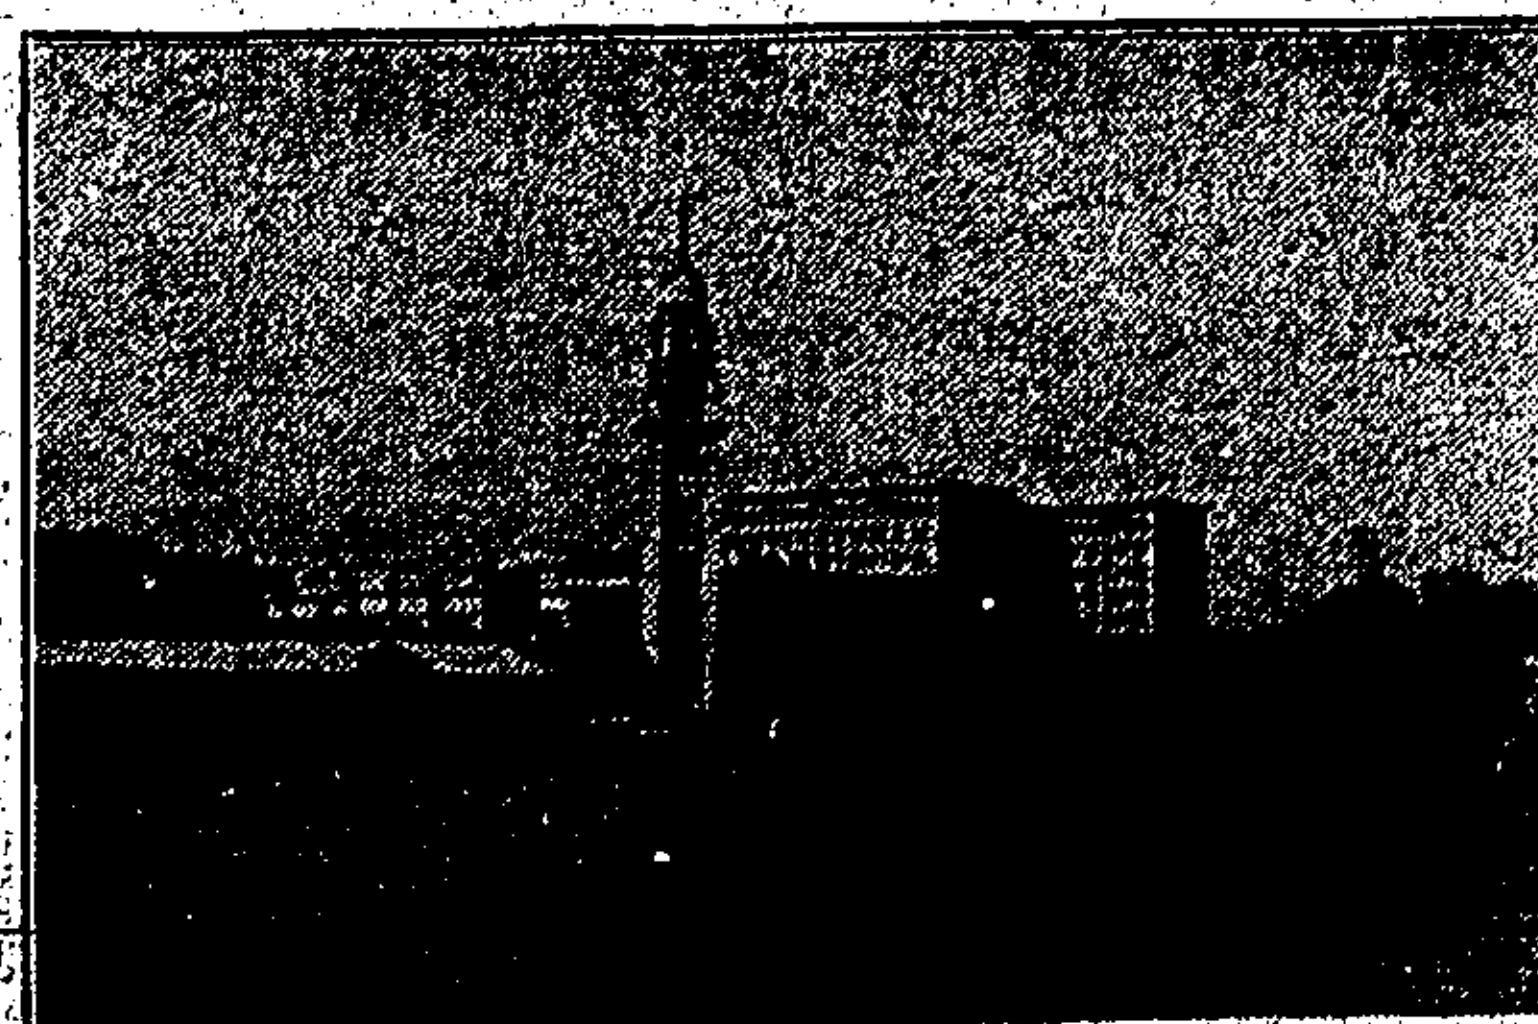

Detective Inspector Rozesky appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Peter Sin represented the first defendant.

Inspector Rozesky said that the Police had not been able to find the parents of the two boys and were still pursuing inquiries.

A concert will be held towards the end of February at the Kowloon Cricket Club by a Company starring as "Cockrane's throw-outs."

WHY WE ARE IN KOWLOON.

Last Spring we decided that the popular shopping district of the future will be in Kowloon. We looked about and took space which we considered to be ideal for the Jade Tree needs. Now we have decided that it is a mistake to divide stocks, so we have taken additional space in Kowloon. Here we have light, air, space to show our merchandise properly—and best of all an overhead that will admit of our selling the well-known high quality Jade Tree merchandise at the low prices at which we want to sell it.

Everyone arrives in Kowloon. Everyone leaves from Kowloon. An increasing number of people are coming to live in Kowloon. Hong Kong people attend various social functions here, they play golf at Fanling. We think they will also shop in Kowloon—when they know the many advantages of it.

We invite them all to come in and see our new premises. Drop in for cup of tea on the way home from golf—or work—and leisurely do the shopping that would otherwise be a task to carry over for another day.

"SQUEEZE AT A SHOOTING GALLERY"

CHARGES AGAINST FOUR CONSTABLES

Before Mr. Batters, at Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday, the hearing of adjourned charges of extortion, against four Indian constables, was continued.

The accused, Sodagar Singh (B390), Naranjan Singh (B364), Gardit Singh (B333) and Gardit Singh (B116), are alleged to have demanded "squeeze" money from three partners of a shooting gallery at No. 230, Lai-chikok Road, which was opened for Chinese New Year celebrations on January 20.

Lou Sing, one of the complainant partners, was subjected to a lengthy cross-examination by Mr. Hin Shing Lo for the defence. He denied having seen any Indians gambling at the shop, and could not recognise any of the defendants.

Witness heard two Indians ask (Continued on next column.)

ST. PATRICK'S SOC. OF HONG KONG

ARRANGEMENTS FOR ANNUAL BALL

CORRESPONDENCE WITH MR. BERNARD SHAW

The Committee of St. Patrick's Society, under the Presidency of Professor Redmond, are making arrangements for the Annual Ball to be held in the Peninsula Hotel on March 17. They are particularly desirous that as many as possible of those attending the Ball should participate in the Irish Dances, one of which it is proposed to include in each half of the Ball Programme, and with this end in view they have arranged for practice dances. The first was held on the evening of Tuesday last. Others are being held on 23rd and 28th instant in the Helena May Institute, Garden Road, commencing at 5.15 p.m. each evening, and it is hoped that a large number of members and friends will attend.

A letter was sent on behalf of the Society to Mr. G. Bernard Shaw, extending him a hearty welcome on his arrival here. He replied with grateful acknowledgment, and expressed his regrets that he was unable to meet the Society personally.

WELCOME TO MR. G. B. SHAW

GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENTS TO THE COMMITTEE

The following letters were exchanged between Capt. P. S. Mahoney, the Hon. Secretary of the local St. Patrick's Society, and Mr. G. B. Shaw—the letter replying in his clear and extremely elegant handwriting: St. Patrick Society of Hong Kong, Hong Kong, Feb. 8, 1933.

G. B. Shaw, Esq., S.S. Empress of Britain. Dear Sir, I am instructed by my Committee to extend to you a hearty welcome on your arrival at this pleasant island, so far from that other Green Isle of pleasant memories, and we trust that you will have a most interesting and enjoyable stay here.

I hardly think that you will need our services, but should you consider that we can be of assistance to you whilst you are here, I assure you that on hearing from you we shall be only too happy to assist you in any way possible. Cordial Mils. Faithfully,

Your faithfully,
 P. S. MAHONEY,
 Hon. Secretary,
 Empress of Britain,
 February 13, 1933.

Capt P. S. Mahoney, St. Patrick's Society of Hong Kong.

Dear Captain Mahoney, Please make my grateful acknowledgments to your Committee, and convey my regret that I am unable to meet the Society personally.

I have only four days available here; and the remaining two are filled with engagements which are virtually compulsory. Faithfully, for $5 and had agreed with Sin Cheuk, another partner, that it would be better to pay the men. Mr. Lo: Why did you not report the case immediately? Witness I did not know where to go in order to do that.
 G. BERNARD SHAW.

A Chinese detective (374) giving evidence stated that he accompanied Inspector Booker, Detective Sergeant Meadows and another detective to the shooting gallery at 11.15 a.m. on January 20. He sat behind the barrier with the other detective and saw Sin Cheuk hand a marked $5 note to the first two defendants. They gave no change and walked out. Sergeant A62 stopped them, asked for the money and received a small "p" from first defendant, who immediately ran away. The Chinese detective caught him and saw him throw away two $5 notes which Sergeant A62 picked up. The Indians were then taken to the Yuenlai Police Station. The case was adjourned.

THE COLONY'S TRAFFIC PROBLEM

REVIEWED AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF H.K. TRAMWAYS LTD.

BIG PROFIT ON TRAMS: LOSSES ON BUS SERVICES

At the annual general meeting of the Hong Kong Tramways, Limited, which was held at Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Company's board room yesterday, the Chairman, Mr. A. B. Stewart, referred to the failure of the Company in competing for the contracts for motor bus operation in the Colony and explained that the conditions with which tenderers were required to comply were of such drastic and onerous nature that—in the case of the Mainland—it was found impossible to accept them.

Mr. Stewart referred to the excellent year's working of the Company, and said that the passengers carried and mileage operated by the trams were the highest in the Company's records. Although more than a million dollars profits were made by the trams, however, considerable loss was sustained by the bus services both in the Colony and the Mainland.

Those present at the meeting were: Mr. A. B. Stewart (Chairman), Mr. A. H. Compton, Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie, Mr. J. E. Joseph (and Hon. Sir Shou-son Chow (Directors), Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy (General Manager), Mr. W. F. Simmons (Secretary), Messrs. D. V. Stevenson, F. Austin, H. Owen-Hughes, G. S. Hubbard, J. F. Wright, Mr. J. D. Kinnaird, B. Wong Tape, Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, W. Allen, W. Choy, G. H. Wilson and Choo Seng Choo (Shareholders).

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

In addressing the gathering the Chairman said:—

Gentlemen, We have had a very good year. Traffic receipts were $2,082,691 or approximately six per cent more than in 1931; passengers numbered 35,511,003 and car-miles operated were 4,325,038, whilst the net profit amounts to $1,029,450. If an exceptional profit on investments in the year 1932 be excluded it can be said that traffic receipts, car-miles operated, passengers carried and net profit all reach figures which are the highest in the company's record. This, I think, you will agree is highly satisfactory.

It will be remembered that in the closing months of 1931 the rails of both tracks between Pedder Street and City Hall were renewed. During the autumn of last year the track between City Hall and Arsenal Street was dealt with similarly so that we now have new rails all the way between Pedder Street and Causeway Bay—the length between Causeway Bay and Arsenal Street having been completed during 1930.

The work and expense of replacing all old Brill trucks with modern long wheel-base trucks fitted with new motors has been pushed forward and 57 out of the 91 trams cars have now been so converted. All cars have been equipped with an improved type of sanding gear which should enable motormen to pull up more rapidly on a greasy rail. The tramcar depot has been slightly extended to accommodate a further 5 trams cars and—as forehadowed last year—we have acquired a valuable site on reasonable terms in the Quarry Bay area where we expect to build a subsidiary depot when the new Shaikwan Road is completed.

Traffic in Shaikwan

Traffic on the Shaikwan section continues to grow. I told you last year that there were strong indications that this route would require a 3 minutes instead of the then 4 minutes service in the immediate future. Passengers on the Shaikwan route increased last year by nearly 14 millions and I can now say there are indications that the present 3 minutes service may soon become inadequate.

To cope with this situation from an electrical point of view we have—during the year—purchased the equipment for an entirely additional traction sub-station and this has been installed for us by the Hong Kong Electric Co., Ltd. in their Ming Yuen premises.

The number of cars we can operate on the Shaikwan route is now only limited by the stretches of single track which remain and which will, of course, disappear when we have been enabled to lay our new double track on the completed 100 foot road.

Heavy Loss in Motor Buses

Motor Buses involved us in a total loss (after providing for depreciation) of approximately $68,000, $13,000 on this side and $55,000 in connection with our subsidiary, the Kai Tak Motor Bus Company. In view of what I am about to say on the new entirely changed outlook in the motor bus situation you will not expect me to take up your time with details of motor bus receipts and expenditure during the past year.

On September 9 last Government announced the termination—as from June 10 next—of all existing permits for motor bus operation within the Colony and invited tenderers for the exclusive maintenance of motor bus services both on the Island of Hong Kong and on the Mainland. Some of the conditions with which tenderers were required to comply appeared to your Directors to be of such drastic and onerous nature that—in the case of the Mainland—it was found impossible to accept them.

To deal with the Mainland first, the outstanding condition which we regarded as the most dangerous was the provision that no tender for the licence or licences should be other than a royalty by way of percentage on gross receipts.

To quote from a leading article in the Hong Kong Daily Press on January 20 last, comparing motor bus problems here with similar problems in Northern Ireland; which had recently been under consideration by a tribunal of experts:—

"One of the findings of the Tribunal was that fares have to be such as will cover working expenses and general charges, depreciation and reserve, and afford a reasonable return upon the amount of capital necessarily and properly invested in the passenger road transport undertaking."

Estimates based on the experience gained in operating the Kai Tak Motor Bus Company indicated that the reasonable requirements outlined above were unlikely to be realised under present conditions and to offer a percentage of gross receipts by way of royalty was therefore out of the question.

The accumulated losses on this subsidiary for the 4 years 1929/1932 are $242,000, of which $200,000 is in respect of the past 3 years. Admittedly we are not operating on the best routes in Kowloon but this substantial annual loss—without any provision for royalty—must make a serious inroad on any profit which may be earned on remunerative routes.

When it is realised that a 30-seater bus must earn about $250 profit per annum to meet depreciation charges alone, the difficulty of meeting royalty payments on gross receipts with the local dollar below 1/4d. will be appreciated.

I have heard it suggested that a royalty based on net profits may be found either unworkable or difficult to assess but so long as proper accounts are kept I cannot see why there should be any difficulty. In the case of this Company, the system has worked perfectly smoothly for many years.

Scheme Submitted

After careful consideration it was decided to offer to operate the Mainland services on certain conditions and two schemes were submitted.

Scheme No. 1 provided for certain trolley vehicle routes and such oil-engined and petrol-engined bus routes as were regarded as reasonably necessary and which would return at least the bare cost of operation. Under this scheme we offered Government 25 per cent. of the net profits.

Scheme No. 2 was entirely different and called for equal partnership between Government and your Company. Each would have held 50 per cent. of the shares in the Mainland mechanical transport undertaking. Government would not have received anything by way of royalty but would have participated in dividends (if any) to the extent of their holding as ordinary shareholders of the Mainland Company.

Neither scheme commended itself to Government who accepted the tender of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company.

Island Services

As regards the Island services, it was considered that a reasonable profit on operation might be anticipated—and a tender (in my view, a very high tender) on the conditions laid down was submitted.

This was not accepted and it must be presumed that the successful tenderer—the China Motor Bus Company—offered Government an even greater royalty than we found impossible to accept them.

DEMAND FOR WATER METERS

QUESTIONS BY SIR HENRY POLLOCK

During the meeting of the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council yesterday when supplementary estimates totalling $80,812 were approved, Sir Henry Pollock, with reference to one of the items asked: "I should like to know whether those entitled to apply for meters in the rider main areas have substantially applied for them?"

The Hon. Mr. Henderson: We have not got the exact number of houses in the rider main areas but the number of applications we actually have, are greater than the number of houses we thought were in the rider main area and so perhaps there are very few who have not applied.

It is economically possible to put forward.

The fleet of Dennis buses on the Mainland in addition to the Guy Buses on this side of the Harbour have been excellently maintained and are in first class condition. Negotiations for the sale of these Buses are proceeding.

Before coming to the accounts it may not be out of place to inform you that I have seen the tramway figures for last month.

Passengers Record

Not only are the receipts higher than in any previous January but the number of passengers carried during the last 10 days of the month—1,154,912 (excluding rides by monthly ticket holders)—marks a new high record for a China New Year period just as January 25 with receipts $9,535 and passengers 133,000, beats our previous record for China New Year's eve.

To deal with the accounts, I have already referred to the record Traffic revenue of $2,082,691.30. The operating expenses, amounting in total to $886,553.34, are slightly less than in the previous year. After charging Depreciation and Government Royalty and including investment, interest and other net sundry earnings as per the Profit and Loss Account, the very gratifying result of $1,029,456.96—being a profit of $118,842.88 greater than in 1931—is returned for the year in review.

The further amount of $155,462.36 brought forward from the 1931 accounts makes a total balance of $1,184,919.35.

Of this $68,000 is written-off to Goodwill and Construction Expenses as annually hitherto; an appropriation of $100,000 is passed to General Reserve in accordance with the policy in this regard mentioned in my speech last year, and $100,000 has been transferred to the Investment and Loan Reserve Account.

An Interim Dividend of $325,000 was paid on August 15 last. The Directors now recommend a Final Dividend of 70 cents per share amounting to $455,000, making a total dividend for 1932 of $1.20 per share.

This represents an increase of 20 per cent. over the last dividend declaration.

There remains a balance of $136,918.95 to be carried forward to the next account.

The allocation of $100,000 to "Investment and Loan Reserve Account" is a further necessary provision on account of our unprofitable Motor-Bus subsidiaries. This appropriation together with that of the previous year creates a reserve of $200,000 against "Motor Transport Investments and Loans" on the opposite side of the account, and it is anticipated that this figure will be sufficient to cover any losses in this connection not otherwise provided.

The new head, "Investments"—$263,171, appearing among the assets represents the investment of surplus funds, not immediately required, in carefully selected dividend bearing shares of certain local companies and Government loans.

There is only one other item calling for particular mention. The additional expenditure of $126,798 to "Other Property" account represents the land purchase effected at Quarry Bay as the site for eventual construction of a supplementary depot to which I have previously referred.

I now have to propose:—

"That the Report of the Directors and the Statement of Accounts of the Company, as presented for the year ended December 31, 1932, be adopted, and that a Final Dividend of 70 cents per share for the year 1932 be and is hereby sanctioned."

The motion was seconded by the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau and was carried unanimously.

BUILDERS OF EGYPT, BABYLON AND GREECE

PROFESSOR REDMOND'S PAPER AT ENGINEERS' INSTITUTE

HOW THE ANCIENT PEOPLES BUILT WITHOUT MORTAR

Professor F. A. Redmond gave a very interesting lecture at the Engineers' Institute yesterday on "Building Centaurs" Ancient and Modern. The first part of the lecture reviewed the methods of the peoples of antiquity, Egyptians, Babylonians and Greeks, who had no cement and achieved amazing results without it. In fact the lecturer spoke of the Great Temple at Karnak as "the most magnificent building" perhaps the world has ever seen, and the period that produced it is "possibly the most glorious period of architecture of all time."

We give below this fascinating review of the history of the subject, and the more technical section of the address will appear to-morrow in our Building and Engineering Supplement.

IF THE GREEKS HAD HAD PORTLAND CEMENT

The lecturer said:—

Our familiarity with ordinary Portland cement and our tendency to regard it as an indispensable building material make it difficult for us at times to realise what a modern material it is. It seems almost incredible that only a hundred years have elapsed since Aspidin produced the first, crude samples of modern cement and that barely 50 years ago many engineers and most architects regarded Portland cement with grave suspicion and distrust. It comes to us rather as a shock, in fact, to be reminded that far from its being indispensable the world has been able from 4,000 B.C. to 1,850 A.D.—to fix convenient, if arbitrary, limits—to struggle along satisfactorily enough without the aid of Portland cement. And whether it disturbs us or not we have to accept the fact that all the world's most famous buildings—"the great marvels of architecture"—all the great monuments which testify to man's genius as an architect and builder have, during this period of 6,000 years, been erected entirely without the assistance of a single particle of Portland cement.

"How then," you will ask "were these buildings erected?" In what manner, for example, were the stones of the Great Temple at Karnak in Egypt or of the Parthenon in Athens or of Angkor Vat held firmly together, in order to provide the necessary stability?"

From the very earliest times, in India and in Egypt, clay either by itself or combined with chopped straw, reeds, hair or plant fibre was employed as a building mortar. It was almost certainly the first form of mortar to be used in any country. Gypsum was used extensively by the early Egyptians but more as a plaster than a mortar. But we have it on good authority that a certain amount of gypsum mortar was used in building the Great Pyramid at Gizeh (3,700 B.C.). A form of crude gypsum plaster was also used commonly in Asia Minor and neighbouring countries. In Babylonia bitumen, of which there was a plentiful supply, would appear to have been used extensively, in the very early days, for cementing together sun-dried bricks.

These materials however are really not genuine cements. They possess practically no tensile strength and are useful only as 'bedding' material.

Hundred Pyloned Thebes.

The first important point we must grasp about the world's famous buildings is that nearly all of them were erected before the Christian era and a great many erected since were built entirely without the aid of mortar. This, when one comes to think of it, is a rather astonishing fact—and yet it is true. Those builders in the truly grand style, the Egyptians, used little or no mortar in their very finest work. The wonderful buildings of "hundred pyloned Thebes," erected during the period of the second Theban Kingdom 1,400-1,300 B.C.—possibly the most glorious period of architecture of all time—were certainly built without the aid of mortar. The Great Temple at Karnak, the most magnificent building perhaps the world has ever seen, was built of massive blocks of sandstone, connected together only here and there with dovetails of wood or metal cramps. The beautiful temples of Greece, erected during the golden age which reached its zenith between 480 and 330 B.C. were also built without mortar. Most of these famous temples were built throughout of marble but a few fine examples were constructed of lime stone. The workmanship of the Greek craftsmen was worthy of the beauty of their buildings. The jointing and finish were marvellous. Stones were fitted together like the parts of a modern machine and there are cases on record of stones having actually adhered together in the course of time. In their best work the Greeks, like the Egyptians, made use of dovetails and cramps. As a last example we shall take the wonderful temple Angkor Vat, a comparatively modern building (1,000-1,300 A.D.) This was constructed of massive blocks of various coloured sand stones fitted together with very great accuracy and without the aid of mortar.

Now an important point about all these famous buildings is that they were built exclusively on the "post and lintel" plan; that is to say they consisted of vertical posts or columns, supporting in a simple manner horizontal beams—lintels and slabs. The great merit of this form of construction, in theory at any rate, is that (apart from the pressure of wind) the only forces acting on the structure are purely vertical and therefore, provided the members are massive enough and the foundation of the building firm, nothing short of an earthquake can destroy its stability.

The Temple of the Planets. A magnificent example of "post and lintel" construction was the hypostyle hall of the Great Temple at Karnak. The roof of this great hall, 340 x 170 ft. in area, was supported by 134 columns, roughly 20 ft. apart centre to centre. The great central columns 76 feet high and about 15 feet in diameter had their centres 30 feet apart. Obviously only an adequate supply of huge monolithic beams and slabs, 20 to 30 feet long, made such a building possible. The columns in the Temple of Ephesus in Greece varied in spacing from 28ft. to 18ft. 4in. apart. Beam and column construction in masonry, then, on anything like a grand scale is manifestly impossible where monolithic beams of large size are unobtainable. We know, for example, that in the great city of Babylon, where stone was not procurable, the beams and columns had to be made of wood. The Babylonians, incidentally, unlike the Greeks and Egyptians, and probably because of their lighter form of construction, obtained effect by building upwards. The ancient temple of Birs Nimrud, for instance, was a real sky scraper six storeys high, while the later "Temple of the Planets" was built in seven storeys.

We must conclude then that "post and lintel" construction—the only form of masonry construction requiring no mortar—in spite of the fact that it has made possible so much of the world's grand and noble architecture, has nevertheless with its massive beams and many supports, very serious limitations, not the least of which is the fact that spans exceeding 20 or 30 feet were only rarely possible.

We do not know who first made the discovery that, as a means of spanning the opening between two supports, a most effective substitute for the beam is the arch. The history of the arch goes back a very long way. The Egyptians, we know, built arches—small ones no doubt, at least 2,000 B.C. The Greeks were fully acquainted with the principle of the arch. But the idea of employing the arch deliberately as a substitute for the beam and of employing it thus on a large scale does not appear to have occurred to either the Egyptian or the Greeks.

Origin of the Arch. The chances are that this idea originated in Babylon. The architecture of Babylon, as the city waxed more and more mighty, faced with the impossibility of building in the grand style in wood—far too perishable a material, anyway, for an architect with ambition—had only one hope, and that was to shape their somewhat inferior bricks into the form of arches and vaults. The fact that their walls were built entirely of brick (mostly sun-dried) tells us the Babylonians made constant use of mortar. And given bricks and mortar, arches are easily built. The question is did they build them? All this of course is largely conjecture on my part. Not only has Babylon fallen: it has completely disappeared! There is, none the less, some evidence that this is not entirely guesswork. The Assyrians, we know, although they had any amount of excellent stone to build with, slavishly copied the

NEARING THE DECISION

Sudden realisation that the Sino-Japanese conflict might involve all the Pacific Ocean Powers in war has sent a shiver through the United States. The country woke to the fact that it may be drawn helplessly into the maelstrom, and the experience was not pleasant. The United States of America, like China, believes theoretically in peace. War is abominated and its heroes placed in a lower category than those of peace. But alas for good intentions, both countries are constantly hustled into the Temple of Mars, and their records are just as bellicose as those of other peoples. For them, as for all the world, the foundations of war are laid in peace, and active hostilities are an inevitable superstructure to errors both of aggression and timidity. "War is a continuation of policy by other means."

That the foundations of a huge-scale war in the Pacific, either now or in the course of the next ten years, have already been well and truly laid, is still open to doubt. The work is well forward, but the time is not too late to destroy the malign structure. The present situation is dangerous, but seems to offer better hopes for a settlement than in the earlier stages. The position has changed, since a year ago when Japan imagined she would have an easy job to consolidate her hold on Manchuria, to cow China, and defy the rest of the world. China, both in her boycott, and in battle, has shown astonishing toughness. Probably the projected campaign against Jehol is being prepared less to assert the Manchukuo claim to the province than to restore Japan's military prestige. The League of Nations, which has been a constant thorn in the side of Japanese expansion, has been purchased, and four ring-necked pheasants have been presented by Mr. Chang Fook Kuei, the Superintendent of Parks, in his report to the Council, states that the pheasants were a gift from the Japanese Government in connection with the League of Nations.

when the "contemptible resistance" is in defence of the native land? If everything goes according to plan will Japan's position really be made stronger? If the Chinese resistance is not smashed to smithereens Japan will only be occupying a hostile and difficult territory, a source of weakness and not strength. Suppose things go awry? What would be the reaction, political and economic throughout Japan? What will Russia do—the benevolent neutral of China? Russia probably does not want war, but Japan's embarrassment might offer too good a chance to miss. Will the League cease to urge moderation, now that Russia, and even America seem to lend a hand? Japan may withdraw from the League, but it now looks as if "sanctions" might be made a reality. Japan's own position is strategically impregnable, provided she can deal with Russia and China, but the problem does not rest merely with armed forces and there are grounds enough for caution in face of hardening opposition.

Is a compromise possible? Cannot the Lytton Report still be used as a basis of discussion? Would not something on the lines of CHANG TSO LIN's earlier administration be possible—a Chinese Governor acceptable alike to Tokyo and Nanking; an international gendarmerie, on lines not dissimilar to the Maritime Customs, preserving order, and guaranteeing security to Japanese enterprise, and a revenue to Nanking? Manchuria to be a demilitarised area, guaranteed for what that is worth, by the Powers, with a clause providing for eventual re-union with China when the troubled times are past? China, Japan, and Manchuria itself, have everything to gain by such a compromise, and, perhaps, everything to lose by plunging into war.

Mrs. G. E. Hubbard, who left home with Mr. Hubbard for Home a few days ago, has presented three canaries and a budgerigar to the Jessfield Park Zoological Gardens, Shanghai. General Tau has presented a golden pheasant, two Mongolian foxes have been purchased, and four ring-necked pheasants have been presented by Mr. Chang Fook Kuei, the Superintendent of Parks, in his report to the Council, states that the pheasants were a gift from the Japanese Government in connection with the League of Nations.

OBITUARY

ARCHIE JACKSON
WELL-KNOWN AUSTRALIAN CRICKETER

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

BRISBANE, Feb. 15.
Archie Jackson, the Australian Test cricketer, died to-day following a long illness, the announcement coming as a great shock.

He had been seriously ill for some considerable time but a few days ago it was indicated that he had made a decided turn for the better and was expected to recover.

Yesterday, marking a poignant romance, Jackson's engagement to Phyllis Jean Thomas was announced. Miss Thomas had been a constant companion at the sickbed. The youthful cricketer passed away after a sudden relapse. He was only twenty-three years of age. He had four years' experience of Test cricket. In 1928-29 at Adelaide he hit up 164 against the English team and in 1930 at the Oval he shared with Don Bradman the honour of setting up the Australian fourth wicket record of 243.

BOLIVIA AND PARAGUAY

ARMS EMBARGO MOVEMENT

(BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.)

RUGBY, Feb. 15.
ANSWERING a Parliamentary question to-day Sir John Simon said that on the initiative of the British Government an exchange of views had taken place between the Governments of the United Kingdom and the United States, France and Italy, with a view to agreement between them to prohibit the export of arms and munitions of war to Bolivia and Paraguay, in anticipation of any prohibition of a more general character that might be arranged through the League of Nations.

Efforts to bring about early action by international agreement were being continued, but had not yet succeeded.
Replying to a supplementary question, he expressed the belief that if an agreement could be established in regard to Bolivia and Paraguay, it could be extended to other countries.

Notification of conditions will be sent to the universities in the United Kingdom within the next few days.

Face-Saving.

Sir Eric Drummond's last-minute formula of conciliation in the Manchurian dispute may not bridge the widening gulf between China and Japan, but at least it staves off the inevitable day when both belligerents wash their hands of the League.

The solution proposed by the retiring Secretary-General is to prune the Geneva resolution of December 20 of all references objectionable to either China and Japan, and to withhold all judgment in the matter of Manchukuo until the rivals are reconciled.

A concession to Japan, moreover, is offered in the suggestion that Soviet Russia and America shall not be specifically invited to join the Committee, but shall be co-opted with other Powers at the Committee's discretion.
There is nothing to show that the two nations concerned will accept the compromise, but at least it saves the face of the Committee of Nineteen, which otherwise would have faced to-day an almost hopeless dilemma.

Growth of Air Traffic.

At a time of railway depression and of a general shortage of cash it is rather remarkable to learn how travel by air continues to increase. Usually one would imagine that the last quarter of the year would be a bad one for the air transport companies, for fog and storms are common and expenses are always high about Christmas-time.

Despite this Imperial Airways have found that the passenger traffic on the Continental routes during the last three months of 1932 exceeded by nearly 150 per cent. the totals for the last quarter of 1931. The actual figures are 5,387 passengers in the final quarter of last year as against 3,373 in the corresponding quarter of the year before.

Doubtless the desire to get into the sunshine quickly has a good deal to do with this extraordinary increase in winter flying, but another factor probably is that air travel is easier and more comfortable than the journey by train and boat, and also it is being realised that air-sickness is much less of a terror than sea-sickness.

Boots Deal Help Up.

The dominating position which sterling is gradually obtaining in the world's commerce has its responsibilities. It is essential that some reasonable amount of stability shall be secured. Hence the precautions which the Treasury has found it necessary to take to prevent any abnormal afflux of money from this country. It is this definite ban on foreign issues which has led to the holding up of the deal practically concluded in connection with the American-held shares of Boots Drug Stores Ltd.

The deal, carried through on this side by Mr. Philip Hill, representing Hambros Bank Erlangers and Philip Hill and Partners Ltd., concerned 1,125,000 shares at a price of about 47 per share. It was proposed that the bulk of these shares should be offered to the British investing public. While the company is essentially British in management and substance the money thus subscribed would have had to be transferred to the United States, involving something over $3,000,000 dollars, in payment for the shares. The transaction, therefore, was the equivalent of a foreign issue.

So large a transfer from sterling into dollars would have had a serious effect on the exchange value of sterling, and it is because of this that the Treasury has stepped in at the eleventh hour and caused the whole transaction to be held up. National interests, it is declared, must come before those of private individuals.

LOOKING BACK 75 YEARS

We have much pleasure in stating that the remainder of the Parsees' magnificent donation of rice to the starving poor in Canton, has gone up this morning in Le Williamette. Capt. Curry of that settlement declined to charge any freight upon it, which considering the trouble it will occasion him, is rather handsome. The total subscription raised amongst the Parsees and other Indian merchants amounts to $2,800. As many parties are about to proceed to Canton, we trust that what they will see will awaken their sympathies and induce them to follow the good example of the Parsees.—Hong Kong Daily Press, February 17, 1958.

LOOKING BACK 50 YEARS

The steamer Pokien is advertised to proceed to Borneo on the 16th inst., and we understand she is to return on this occasion direct, continuing after that to keep up direct communication between North Borneo and Hong Kong with reference to Singapore. There will consequently be a nearly fortnightly communication between the two countries, which should prove most advantageous to those Chinese who have begun to take permanent interest in the country.—Hong Kong Daily Press, February 17, 1983.

Looking Back 25 Years

The third day of the races—Ladies Day—was brought off in much better weather conditions than either of the preceding days, and there was the same large and enthusiastic crowd, the ladies being more numerous. Again His Excellency the Governor and Lady Lugard were early in their stand, and watched the racing with interest. Yesterday's maid was provided by the band of the Middlesex Regiment, and was appropriate and appreciated. The racing was excellent, and the fields ever larger than on the previous day, while the same keen and excited crowd swarmed round the cash sweeps and the pari-mutuel. A notable race of the day was the Ladies' Purse which was won by Mr. Buxey's Spring Horse who was ridden to victory by Mr. Dupree. After the race the rider attended the grandstand where Miss B. Layton presented him with the murex, amid great cheering.—Hong Kong Daily Press, Feb. 17, 1908.

ATTEMPT TO KILL MR. ROOSEVELT

LUCKY ESCAPE OF AMERICA'S PRESIDENT ELECT

MAYOR OF CHICAGO IN SERIOUS CONDITION

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Miami, February 16.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S assailant Zingara, who is stocky, swarthy black with curly hair, after alleging that some years ago he attempted to kill the King of Italy said: "I am sorry I did not kill Mr. Roosevelt. I am not a member of any party and have done my own thinking and reached the decision myself."

Zingara told the Police he purchased an old fashioned pistol at a pawnshop in Miami and intended shooting Mr. Hoover, but on learning that Mr. Roosevelt was visiting Miami, he decided to kill him instead.

Newspaper cuttings found in his possession recounted Mr. Roosevelt's movements. One related to the assassination of President McKinley in 1901.

Another man, Andrea Valenti, who lived in the same house as Zingara has been detained on suspicion.

"I AM GLAD IT WAS ME INSTEAD OF YOU"

Doctors are of the opinion that Mayor Cermak stands a fifty-fifty chance of recovery. Some of the other five injured stand a similar chance.

Mr. Roosevelt visited each of the victims in hospital besides Mayor Cermak who, before submitting to an operation, told Mr. Roosevelt: "I am glad it was me instead of you."

Mrs. Krutz, who was standing next to Zingara, twenty-five yards from Mr. Roosevelt, at the time of the shooting recounted to Reuter how she struck up the gunman's hand as he was firing for the fifth time, then a detective and a policeman pounced on the assailant and tied him to a car amid the crowds shouting of "kill him."

Zingara was then taken to gaol safe from mob violence.

Italian Bricklayer.

Zingara, a 33-year-old Italian bricklayer, in another statement to the Police said: "I am poor and have always been poor. I have all kinds, presidents and everybody who is rich. I meant to shoot Mr. Roosevelt while he was talking in to the microphone but the crowd was too dense."

Mr. Roosevelt in a statement said he was deeply moved by the serious injuries inflicted on his friends. The five injured are Mr. Sinnott, a New York detective, Mrs. Gill, and Mrs. Krutz who were shot in the stomach and hand respectively, a man named Galloway and a five-year-old boy.

Cermak's Condition Improved.

Mayor Cermak's condition has considerably improved. Mrs. Gill's condition is serious, but the others are believed to be out of danger.

"Sometimes I get a big pain in the stomach then I want to kill these presidents," Zingara told the Police in the course of examination.

Zingara's stomach bears a big scar which he says is the result of an operation.

The Police now tend the opinion that Valenti (who was detained on suspicion because he lived in the same house with Zingara) has no connection with the crime.

Crime Confessed.

Questioned by the Police, in a cell on the twenty-first story of the County Jail, Zingara confessed the crime in broken English. He declared he wanted to kill all presidents. When in Italy he wanted to kill the King, but was unable to approach him.

He added that he went to Miami two months ago for health owing to stomach pains. He purchased a revolver at a pawnshop for $8. He deeply regretted his failure to kill Mr. Roosevelt. He approved of Bolshevism, but denied that he belongs to any party or organization.

French Contrabutions.

PARIS, Feb. 16.

President Lebrun has instructed the French Ambassador at Washington to congratulate Mr. Roosevelt on his escape.

Arrest of "Machine Gun" McGurn Ordered.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.

The Police Chief has ordered the arrest of Jack "Machine Gun" McGurn, a reputed gunman of the Al Capone gang, whom they held but released shortly before the news of the attempt against Mr. Roosevelt.

The District Attorney, however, is not of the opinion that McGurn or gangland have any connection with the shooting.

COMMITTEE OF NINE'S DECISIONS

FULL TEXT OF RECOMMENDATIONS PUBLISHED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Feb. 16.

THE full text of the Committee of Nine's Recommendations was published to-day and differ very slightly in the arrangement from those cabled. The text has been padded out by copious quotations.

The Recommendations declare, inter alia, that a solution of the conflict must be with the view of establishing lasting understanding between China and Japan, and conform with the conditions of the Lytton Commission of Enquiry. The Committee recommends the establishment in Manchuria, within a reasonable period of time, an organisation under the sovereignty of, and compatible with, the administrative integrity of China, providing a wide measure of autonomy, answering to legal conditions, and taking into account the rights and interests of Japan.

Japanese Troops.

The Recommendations declare that as the presence of Japanese troops outside the Zone of the South Manchuria Railway is incompatible with the legal principles, which must be complied with in a settlement of the dispute, the Assembly recommends the evacuation of these troops. The first purpose of negotiations recommended hereinafter should be to organize this evacuation and determine its conditions, stages and time limit. The Assembly recommends the opening of negotiations between the two parties in accordance with the methods specified hereinafter. Each of the parties is invited to inform the Secretary-General of the League whether it accepts the settlement recommended by the Assembly, subject to the sole condition that the other party also accepts it.

The negotiations will take place with the assistance of a Committee established by the League Assembly. In case of difficulty, the Committee must report to the Assembly which shall pronounce thereon. It is left to the Assembly to designate the membership of the Committee, but suggests that the Signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty, several members of the Committee of Nine, and members of the Committee of Negotiations and an invitation extended to the Soviet Government to become a member of this Committee. Within a month after having been informed of the acceptance of the two parties, the Secretary-General shall take all suitable steps for the opening of negotiations.

Not a Mere Return to "Status Quo."

The settlement which is recommended differs from a mere return to the status quo existing before September, 1931; it also precludes the maintenance and recognition being incompatible with the fundamental principles of the existing international obligations and with the mood of understanding between China and Japan, on which peace in the Far East depends.

The Committee declares it is clear that in adopting the present Report members of the League ought to refrain, particularly as regards the present régime in Manchuria, from any act likely to prejudice the execution of the recommendations of the said Report, or delay their application. They will continue not to recognise this régime either in law or fact. They intend to refrain in regard to the situation in Manchuria from any isolated action and to concert their action among themselves and, if possible, with the States concerned which are not members of the League, namely the United States and the Soviet Republic.

In order to facilitate as far as possible the establishment in the Far East of a situation in conformity with the conclusions presented in the present Report, the Secretary-General is instructed to communicate a copy of this Report to the States who are not members of the League, but who are signatories to the Nine-Power Treaty or the Kellogg Pact, informing them of the Assembly's hopes that they will associate themselves with the views expressed in this Report and, if necessary, concert their action and their attitude with the members of the League.

MANCHUKUO PROTEST TO SOVIET CONSUL-GENERAL

HARBIN, Feb. 15.

According to instructions from the Manchukuo, the local representative of the Manchukuo Foreign Ministry handed over a strong protest to the U.S.S.R. Consul-General here on February 11 pointing out that Soviet citizens have been continuously crossing over the Manchukuo frontiers in the vicinity of Manchukuo and the West, and also the definitely established frontier posts were pulled down and replaced by the Manchukuo authorities. The protest also pointed out that the Soviet Government had been previously notified of this situation.

SHOULD BLOODSHED RECUR

"SHAMEFUL REFLECTION TO BRITISH PUBLIC"

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Feb. 16.

WHEN bloodshed recurs it will be a shameful reflection to the British public that Chinese and Japanese are killing each other with weapons supplied by Britain, says the Daily Herald when commenting on Mr. Runciman's arms exports statement. It urges an agreement whereon the Powers conferring to prohibit arms exports to Bolivia and Paraguay should be extended to China and Japan, and other actual or potential belligerents.

N. MANCHURIA ORDER AND PEACE NOT YET RESTORED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Feb. 16.

DR. H. W. Yen has written to the League denying the statement issued by the Japanese Delegation on January 26 that the Chinese Volunteer forces have been subordinated in North Manchuria. Dr. Yen asserts that for strategic reasons the Volunteers have dispersed their units instead of concentrating them. Nevertheless, their efforts to resist the Japanese continued with increased intensity.

JAPAN AND THE LEAGUE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

MEMBERSHIP OF LEAGUE FAVOURED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Tokyo, Feb. 16.

WHILE the question of Japan's withdrawal from the League still hangs on the balance, there are indications that the majority of opinion both in the Foreign Office and Navy circles favours Japan's retention of membership if possible, though the Army, generally, appears to advocate withdrawal if the Assembly passes the Committee of Nine's recommendations.

COMMITTEE OF 19'S DECISIONS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BOUND TO HAVE SERIOUS REPERCUSSIONS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

GENEVA, Feb. 16.

THE Japanese Government cannot conceal its apprehension that the unrealistic theoretical decision by the Committee of Nine would make it an extremely difficult task for restoring peace and tranquillity in the Far East, since such a course is bound to have serious repercussions in that part of the world.

This note of warning is the conclusion in a long Japanese statement reviewing the negotiations with the League since the drafting of the December resolution. It emphasises throughout Japanese willingness to uphold the League's prestige and simultaneously safeguarding vital Japanese interest, and speaks of the Committee of Nine's precipitate unwarranted action in negotiations in the race for conciliatory Japanese action.

MUNITIONS FOR FAR EAST

BRITISH FIGURES FOR LAST TWO MONTHS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.

THE supply of arms and munitions to China and Japan was the subject of questions by Mr. Mander in the House of Commons today.

Replying, Mr. Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, said that during December 68,000 40-millimetre shells, 8,500 machine-gun cartridges and forty machine-guns were exported to Japan, while twenty machine-guns were exported to China.

In January, four million rifle cartridges were exported to China.

DELEGATE TO GENEVA

SIR PHILIP SABBOON, Under-Secretary for Air, to-day left London for Geneva to attend the Disarmament Conference as the Air Ministry representative.

WAR RISKS IN YELLOW SEA

BRITISH UNDERWRITERS WORRIED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.

UNDERWRITERS in the London Marine Insurance Market are paying attention to the Far Eastern situation in connection with protection against war risks, on voyages between China and Japan. Insurance companies' customary period of notice for cancelling normal war risk to cover and its replacement at a higher premium by Lloyd's and Marine Companies, acting concertedly, is the probable procedure in the present situation, but as the usual ten-day notice is sufficiently long to involve underwriters in serious risks there is a movement afoot to shorten the period considerably.

INDIA BANK RATE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BOMBAY, Feb. 16.

THE India Bank rate was to-day reduced to 3½ per cent.

CARNAGE IN RUMANIA

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BUCHAREST, Feb. 16.

TWENTY people, mostly women, were wounded by machine-guns in a clash between troops and sympathisers with 4,000 strikers who barricaded themselves in the railway workshops following the arrest of their leader.

The troops hoped that they could force them to surrender from cold and hunger, but relatives appeared, bringing blankets and food, thus causing the clash.

Artillery was brought up and trained on the workshops, the inmates of which were believed to be unarmed.

Workers in other parts of Rumania have been equally restless since the beginning of the recent campaign against Communism, which is declared illegal.

Strikers Surrender.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 16.

The strikers have surrendered following a hot exchange of fire with troops, in which three strikers and nine troops were killed and one striker and 22 of the troops wounded.

POLITICAL CRISIS IN BELGIUM

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BRUSSELS, Feb. 16.

THE Cabinet have tendered their resignations to the King, following the Government's defeat by 82 votes to 72 on a Socialist motion censuring the Minister of the Interior for cancelling the communal elections at Hasselt.

The King has, however, refused to accept the Cabinet's resignation. His Majesty declares that the nation would be unable to comprehend that the fate of the Government, whose self-imposed duty was the improvement of the financial and economic situation, could depend upon the validity or otherwise of a village election.

The Prime Minister, Count De Broqueville, has asked for twenty-four hours in which to consider the position.

Meanwhile, the Liberals, who voted against the Government, are again prepared to co-operate.

BRUSSELS, Feb. 16.

With deference to the King's wishes the Cabinet has decided to remain in office.

THE SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.

IN the House of Commons to-day, the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Bolton Eyre-McNall, announced that the total expenditure to date on the Singapore Base, excluding the floating dock, was £3,438,000.

To this sum, Malaya, New Zealand and Hong Kong had contributed £2,132,000, leaving a net expenditure on the Navy Vote of £1,306,000.

JARDINE AND HIS MERRY MEN REGAIN THE "ASHES"

Win Fourth Test Match By Six Wickets

British Premier Sends Telegram Of Congratulation

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

London, February 16.

THE following cables have been sent to Jardine: "Heartiest congratulations to you and all your team. We looked forward to hearing of hard fought games with our old rivals on the cricket field and a win for us this time is well done."

"Bravo, the 'Ashes' are won but they are secondary in the great fighting spirit and good sportsmanship shown by both sides."

"THE MEN HAVE BEEN SPLENDID"

Brisbane, Feb. 16.

Mr. Warner in a statement said: "We are naturally proud and delighted at recovering the 'Ashes'. The Australians, true to tradition, fought hard and the bowling of Ironmonger and O'Reilly was of a highest order. O'Reilly was so good that when Leyland was out I left the ground as I could not bear to see the finish. I heard on the wireless that the score was 144/4 so I returned."

Our bowling invariably was extremely good and the fielding inspired. Jardine managed the bowling extremely well and his placing of our success due to the loyal co-operation by the whole team on and off the field.

In the words of Lord Roberts, "the men have been splendid." Jardine said he was proud of the privilege to lend the side and no captain had received, or could ask for greater sympathy or the utter loyalty than has fallen to my lot. We are proud of our success against gallant and determined opponents. We are naturally delighted to have remained the 'Ashes', but I hope we can say with Kipling: "Cricketers can meet triumph and disaster and treat the two impostors in just the same thought. The second Test at Melbourne was the greatest Test in history."

Woodfull congratulated the M.C.C. players, but he said their defeat had only spurred them on for the 1934 Test matches.

A Poor Attendance.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BRISBANE, Feb. 16.

England won the fourth Test today by six wickets. The wicket was left unaffected by rain early this morning, but only a small crowd witnessed the resumption of the English innings at 107 for 2 in threatening weather.

Ironmonger opened the Australian attack with O'Reilly, and met with an early success when he had Hammond taken by Bromley at cover point, 118-3-14.

The Gloucestershire batsman had batted stolidly for 71 minutes and his 14 was scored out of 40.

Leyland, who had been playing magnificent cricket, fell to a catch in the slips off O'Reilly at 138, his score being 88.

He played a dominating innings blending caution and aggression in a masterly manner. During his stay of 222 minutes he hit a five and nine boundaries.

With Paynter and Ames together runs came quickly. The Lancashire left-hander got O'Reilly away to the leg boundary off his first ball and then Ames hit the same bowler for a six on the off-side.

Paynter played dashing cricket, and soon got Ironmonger past mid-on to the rails to send up 183 as the result of 345 minutes play.

Light rain succeeded in hurrying matters, Ames claiming a three to the on off McCabe, and Paynter scored the winning hit off the next ball when he hooked the same bowler for a six to the fine leg boundary.

CRICKET NOTES

AND GREAT WAS THE FULL THEREOF

Really, I am exceedingly sorry that I seemed to tread on someone's corns a fortnight ago when I spoke of an inferiority complex as regards the Club ground. There is, to my mind anyway, nothing rude or derogatory in saying a side may have an inferiority complex as regards certain grounds—or a player either, for that matter. I have one for Sookunpo—also for C.C.C., O.S.C.C., H.K.C.C., K.C.C. and some others. What I really was trying to get at was that the batting of the Indian's first eleven was liable to break down and that I thought it was especially liable to happen on the Club Ground. As a matter of fact, it did, but as usual their bowlers backed up by about the best fielding side in the Colony, had put the Club out for so few that the collapse did not ruin things any more than it did against the Civil Service. So, though possibly it was what a brother might rather brusquely described as an inferiority complex, I was right about the batting, whether it was a superiority complex or not. But the pitcher that goes to the well too often gets in the neck at last, and though Pereira and Minu had bowled very purely and put the University out for eighty, the I.R.C. lost by ten runs on Saturday last.

Still Probables.

I regret to find that too often criticism of this team is taken a little amiss. After all, every one has a right to his own opinion. Still, let me put it quite clearly that I think they have still a very good chance of pulling it off. The Kowloon batting is just as likely to collapse as their's is, and in my opinion in Minu and Pereira they have the most dangerous pair of opening bowlers in the Colony. To back them up they have Madar and Baker, while Arthur Rumjahn has an uncanny knack of breaking up a stand. I do not think the I.R.C. bowling has ever been as good as it is this season. Their fielding is splendid, and in this the only side that gets near them for all round brilliance is the University. It is most probable that the final decision in this season's League will be made on the 25th of March when they play Kowloon at Kowloon. I regret very sincerely that I shall not be in the Colony to see the match which should be a needle one.

A Fine Finish.

While the University owe what success they had in the batting line to E. L. Gosano and D. K. Samy, who, with Mr. Extras scored fifty-eight out of eighty, the match was won by their bowlers, Lee and Anderson. Neither Gosano nor A. T. Normandby, who opened, could do much though they were not badly hit in the three over a piece they bowled. A. T. Lee went on with Samy but the latter only bowled two overs and then Donald Anderson came on. With twenty-three runs for no wicket the I.R.C. looked safe for they have practically no tail of which to speak. But magnificent bowling by Anderson, 9-3-18-5, and Lee, 12-3-20-5, then took charge of the game. All cricketers will be pleased that Anderson had such a fine bowling performance to his credit in his last game before leaving for home. But one must not overlook Finkler Lee's bowling which was very nearly as good, and I am told equalled the form that he used to show several seasons ago. For the losers, Minu's four for twenty was a good bit of work while Pereira bowled six maidens out of twelve overs. I did not see the game but I hazard the guess that the small size of the ground is awkward for a bowler of his pace, especially when the outfield is so fast. A snick or mis-hit ball is bound to be a four if it does not go to hand.

Friendlies.

The most interesting game perhaps of the friendlies was that between K.C.C. and the Club on the ground of the former team, and this again revealed the lack of good batting—or is it the abundance of fine bowling we have! The two teams who certainly rank among the strongest in the Colony made two hundred and five runs for twenty wickets. Dedicating twenty-five for extras, it works out that Beck, Witham and Willie Hung made between them a hundred and six runs of the hundred and eighty from the bat. Hung indeed was the only batsman to do much for K.C.C. who were all out for eighty-five, thanks largely to another magnificent performance of Beck's, who took seven for twenty-seven. He must have a very fine crop of wickets this year. I arrived at the K.C.C. well after the game and did not see the Club players, but those of the K.C.C. I saw spoke enthusiastically of the match. They were all of the opinion that the Club were the better team, and that the K.C.C. were the better bowlers. They were all of the opinion that the Club were the better team, and that the K.C.C. were the better bowlers. They were all of the opinion that the Club were the better team, and that the K.C.C. were the better bowlers.

Robert Lee Saves Craigengower. But for Robert Lee, who again showed his batting abilities in a good seventy-two out of a total of a hundred and seventeen, the C.C.C. would have been rather torn up and thrown away by the Army. He also took four for twenty-one. It was rather a one man affair on each side as for the losers, their skipper, Captain Mirehouse, took six for fifty-eight, and made thirty-seven out of a hundred and one. Garthwaite got four for thirty-one but he is not coming off with the bat at present.

The Borderers Win.

At Sookunpo the Borderers were all over a very weak Civil Service team, who, apart from Sayer and Baker, were without E. B. Reed, E. W. Hamilton and J. Barrow. They had indeed Griffiths and McLehann but these two very useful cricketers were playing entirely without practice after a season devoted to Rugby. They will no doubt strengthen the side in later matches. The C.S.C.C. only made ninety runs of which Evans, de Rome and Wood alone contributed double figures. According to the analysis, as printed, they managed to lose eleven wickets—but I rather guess that the run-out was credited to the bowler. After all, a lot of us really howl for that. Against a weak bowling side the Borderers definitely took ten. Wales collected a useful seventy-three, while Church had thirty-three, Col. Raikes twenty-nine, and Captain Villar twenty-four. Griffiths took four for forty runs.

The Sunday's Game.

The Civil Service, with a much weaker side were out against the Volunteers on Sunday on the C.S.C.C. ground and managed a draw against quite a good Volunteer side. This, as usual, means that Dicky Richardson came off with the bat—as he made eighty-two out of a hundred and fifty-six for seven. Harley, Beck, Davies, and F. S. W. Smith came off for the Volunteers who batted first and two hundred and two for seven, with Munro and Griffiths still to bat. A very pleasant game. The printed bowling analysis does not tally up, but it really does not matter!

The Coming Interport.

I have been asked to write some sort of a forecast about the forthcoming Interport match which normally should be played in November next. So far as I know, invitations have not been sent but I fancy it is a fair assumption that we shall get a team down here from Shanghai, but not one from Malaya. Anyway, I shall proceed upon this assumption. It is, of course, very early days to forecast, but the Interport takes place so early in our season that, at Trials at all events, the last season's form is the only basis on which to work. And the great difficulty the Selection Committee will be up against is to dissociate their minds from past history and to get down to brass tacks. "Where are the shows of yesterday?" is a very beautiful refrain for a balladeer, but in the cricket world one enquires "Where are the runs of yesterday?" the only answer is "Have makee die." I do not know of any season where the acknowledged professors in the game have so completely failed to live up to their reputation, so far as batsmen are concerned. They will all, of course, get a most extended trial, but I cannot believe that the runs that were made in the twenties will carry weight now. This is, of course, iconoclastic. I ought to know that a graceful single figure score is worth an unorthodox fifty. In fact I do know it. But in these evil days it does not win matches.

A New Era.

I should not write this if I did not believe very seriously that we have come somewhat to the parting of the ways. Hitherto there have been practically always been at least five or six old hands who more or less walked into the team. But now, whom have you? The only reasonably stone-cold certainty you have is Dunkley behind the stumps, that is, of course, if he is in the Colony. It is a very strong probability that Beck will go in as our fast bowler if he has returned from leave, and that A. R. Minu will be our left-hander. One may go a step further and say that T. A. Pearce must be then have found our light and wickets and will produce the batting that put him into the Kent first eleven.

The Probables.

Besides these are four men, I myself would unhesitatingly put Pereira in if he retains his form. This "if" plays a part in it. A bit overdone. Jardine is playing two fast and a medium bowler as often as not in the Test, and as Beck and Pereira are both useful batsmen, it is not unlikely that they will be the mainstay of the team. But, getting the runs, and then Beck going in, number eight, spelled matters by a gallant fifty-three not

H.K. FOOTBALL COUNCIL

DRAW FOR SHIELD MATCHES

At the monthly meeting of the Hong Kong Football Council which was held yesterday, the Chairman, Major C. M. Manners, remarked that Mr. R. M. Dyer, the president of the Association, and who is at present in Jamaica, would not return to the Colony. He therefore wished to thank Mr. Dyer on behalf of the members of the Council for all he had done for the Association and said that he had been informed that a proposal, sponsored by Mr. J. Scott Hamilton is at present under consideration to present Mr. Dyer with a suitable gift for his public services to the Colony.

Major Manners then proposed that the Association should support the scheme, and on the seconding of Mr. Mitchell it was agreed that a suitable subscription should be sent in due course. It was also announced by Mr. Manners that Sergeant G. Caswell, assistant secretary of the Association, is also shortly leaving the Colony, and he wished to thank Mr. Caswell on behalf of the members for what he had done.

Draw for Shield Matches.

Other matters at the meeting were the draw for the second round of the Shield Competition, and for the election of officers for the various committees.

The draw for the Shield matches resulted as follows:—

Senior Shield: Club or S.W.B. v. St. Joseph's.
Lincoln v. R.A.
Athletic v. Navy.
South China v. Kowloon.
Junior Shield.
Navy v. Athletic "A".
Athletic "B" v. R.A.S.C.
Lincoln or South China "A" v. R.A.E.

S.W.B. v. South China "B".
Mr. J. Ralston was appointed a member of the Council in place of Mr. G. T. May who had been appointed Secretary.

Mr. J. S. Logan was appointed Assistant Secretary, and Captain F. R. Williams was elected to take his place as member of the Council.

Hughes, Mitchell and Hayward have done little this season—and to this category you might add Richardson, Duckitt and all the Kowloon batsmen except perhaps Tuddy Fincher whose steadiness always makes him useful in a big show. Anderson has gone home, and while, though a brilliant field, has not been a regular run-getter. Bowler is crooked and Alan Reid is very variable. Burnett falls into the same category though unusually his late swing makes him a most dangerous bowler.

Possible.
C. C. Garthwaite of the Gunners has at times shown Interport form, and while he is not so expensive when he loses his length, Mirehouse would be useful. He seldom gets a wicket to help him here. A fine Army cricketer in P. Williams has, I hear, just come out to the Gunners. Robert Lee has come on as a bat and if he could bowl on the Club ground he would merit careful consideration. Rodriguez of the University, and perhaps E. L. Gosano merit a trial. There are plenty more of whom I cannot think at the moment. But it really boils down to this that we have dozens of possibilities, and the great difficulty will be to pick the best of an unreliable lot. I have no information about Shanghai's form at present and it would be idle to speculate on anything else but the personnel of our team.

England Recovers the Ashes.
As I was writing the last paragraph the news came in that England had won the fourth Test match, and with it the rubber, by six wickets. So far as one can make out, the spectators accepted the M.C.C. decision in a very sporting way there were no demonstrations. It is what one would have expected from a sporting race. Apparently the runs came pretty quickly and the not out Ames and Paynter hit a six apiece. The game will probably be best remembered for the fact that when things were going badly with England in the first innings Paynter rose from his sick-bed to play a grand innings which pulled the game round. Verity confirmed his previous reputation as a useful bat.

To-morrow's Games.
According to the cards, the Navy and K.C.C. have a blank day, while I learn that the O.S.C.C. and I.R.C. friendly is scratched. Craigengower have a friendly with the 'Varsity, and will probably get beaten unless Omar and Lee get going. It is in their favour that Anderson has gone home. The best game of the day will be between the Club who are at home, and are pretty well at full strength, and the Army, who may or may not be. It will be interesting to see how Williams does, if he turns out. Garthwaite's return to the bowling line will also be worth watching.

H. K. C. C. TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Y. F. TAM GAINS IMPORTANT SUCCESS BY BEATING YEW MAN KIT

YOUNG ASPIRANT BREAKS OPPONENT'S DEFENCE

(BY SALADIN).

By defeating Yew Man Kit, an ex-interpreter, yesterday in the second round of the Open Singles Championship of the Colony, Tan Yee Fong, has established himself among the ranks of the leading players of the Colony. This is his initial championship, and as he is one of the youngest aspirants at the present time, more will undoubtedly be heard of him.

Tam entered the tournament with a reputation. Finalist in the Hanoi Championship, he made a convincing debut here in the first round against C. E. Abbas, to whom he conceded only one game. Yesterday, he survived his first big test, and in emerging successful after being on the verge of defeat, he has proved to be a player possessing fine match temperament and fighting qualities of a high order. His next match will be against L. Goldman a good all rounder, who is acknowledged to be a better player than Yew, and it will be interesting to see how he will fare then.

Tam Yee Fong, who beat Yew Man Kit brilliantly yesterday to establish himself among the top ranks of lawn tennis players.

Essentially a singles player, the newcomer is more of the old type, preferring to remain at the base line all the time, where he is hard to beat. He possesses a powerful forehand drive which is his chief weapon of attack. He imparts a good deal of top spin and controls this shot so well that his placements are invariably accurate. Yesterday Tam virtually won the match with this stroke, but it must be said that he only succeeded in beating Yew after he had first worn out his more experienced opponent, who began to show signs of tiring towards the end of the second set. Tam's backhand appears to be useful also, but he did not employ it confidently in the early stages yesterday, as only in the third set did it become effective. His service, although not very fast, is accurate. Tam seems to fight shy of the net, and lost many opportunities to score by failing to follow up, while on the rare occasions that he was drawn up, he showed a weakness at volleying. He is, however, fast on his feet and possesses strong stamina.

Dour Struggle.

The match went to three sets, the final scores being 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. The first two sets produced a dour struggle in which tactics became the chief factor and consideration. Tam's forehand drive was early in fine working order and instrumental in giving him a lead of 4-3 form in beating Earnshaw in straight sets.

He meets R. Choa this afternoon and is expected to qualify for the third round to meet F. N. Wong, who did very well to overcome S. O. Green, an ex-champion, yesterday by the odd set, after a prolonged struggle in the final set. Wong proved too tenacious for Green who drove with his usual consistency, but was constantly upset by his opponent's ability to retrieve his shots. Wong worked hard throughout, and repeatedly endeavoured to draw Green away from the base line by dropping over short balls.

LIVING WITHIN OUR MEANS

BRITAIN RECTIFIES BALANCE OF TRADE

London, Jan. 17.—The outstanding point of last year's foreign trade returns, now complete, is the substantial progress made in rectifying the adverse balance of trade. This adverse balance was all to the good while we were turning large sums by our shipping and banking and receiving further large sums in the way of interest and dividends on foreign investments. But earnings have fallen off and many of our debtors are in default, with the result that the adverse balance became distinctly embarrassing.

In 1930 the invisible income was estimated at £214,000,000, and we had a balance to the good of £238,000,000. In 1931, however, the invisible income had fallen to £201,000,000 and we had a balance on the wrong side of as much as £108,000,000. To that extent we were living beyond our means. The result was the departure from the Gold Standard and the serious financial crisis.

We faced up to the situation. The depreciation in sterling acted as a drastic check on imports, and to this has been added the change in our fiscal system. The result is that the adverse balance last year was reduced by £110,000,000, and although there was no doubt a further diminution of our invisible income it may be taken that the balance will once again be on the right side.

LOCAL DANCE CARBARETS

(c) Between what hours they are permitted to remain open to the public; and

(d) The periods for which these places of entertainment are allowed to continue their business.

3. Are any regulations extant permitting of the licensing of cabarets in the Colony? If not, is it contemplated to regulate the business of cabarets by law?

4. If the reply to the preceding question is in the negative, will the Government consider the expediency of the early framing of regulations for licensing cabarets and similar establishments in Hong Kong?

5. Are cabarets in the Colony restricted as to number; if so, what is the maximum number for Hong Kong and Kowloon, respectively?

6. Does the Inspector-General of Police consider that such numbers have been attained, and if not will he limit the number and so discourage the opening of any more establishments devoted to commercial dancing?

THE I.C.P.'S REPLIES

Reply to Mr. Braga, the Hon. Mr. E.D.C. Wolfe said:—

1. The Inspector General of Police is aware that such institutions exist in the Colony and that the number is increasing. The Inspector General of Police has reason to believe that certain sections of the community do not regard cabarets and dancing academies with approval, though he has received no representations on the subject.

2 (a) The number of cabarets or dancing academies carrying on business with the knowledge of the Police is—

(b) A list has been prepared and will be circulated to Honourable Members.

(c) There is no restriction on the hours they are permitted to remain open to the public.

(d) There is no limit to the periods for which dancing academies are allowed to continue business.

3 There are no regulations extant. A proposal to require dancing academies to be licensed, and to frame suitable regulations in under consideration at the present time.

4 Does not arise.

5 No. The Inspector General of Police has at present no power to limit the number of cabarets or similar establishments.

BILLS PASS THEIR FINAL STAGES

YESTERDAY'S COUNCIL MEETING.

Beside the question pertaining to cabarets, yesterday's Legislative Council dealt with the second and third readings of four bills which were duly passed. These were as follows:—

"A Bill to amend further the Code of Civil Procedure."

"A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Arms and Ammunition."

"A Bill to amend further the Printers and Publishers Ordinance, 1927."

"A Bill to amend the Supreme Court (Vacancies) Ordinance, 1933."

With reference to the first of these bills, the Attorney General, in moving the second reading said: "With regard to what is stated at the end of paragraph 1 of the Objects and Reasons for this bill, I should add that the Convention with Italy has been extended to the Colony and a notification to that effect was published in the Local Gazette."

The following motion, moved by the Attorney General and seconded by the Colonial Secretary was also passed:—"That the order dated the 6th day of February, 1931, made by the Chief Justice under section 115 of the Bankruptcy Ordinance 1931 be approved."

In proposing the motion, the Attorney General said: "The approval of this Council is required for the amendment to the scale of fees and percentages allowed where the employment of an accountant has been duly sanctioned and no special arrangement has been made by him with the Official Receiver or Trustee in bankruptcy for the payment of a smaller amount. In the scale prescribed by the Chief Justice and approved by the Council on November 10, Chartered accounts were assigned a daily fee of $75 to $100. The amendment prescribes a like fee for Incorporated accountants."

hydraulic mortar. Unfortunately the two specimens I brought down with me in 1915 were thrown away by my boy before I had time to have them analysed or tested for strength. In our library at the University we have a large brick from the Great Wall of China. It looks to me suspiciously like sand brick, but it is a genuine hydraulic mortar. The quality is very methods and style of Babylonia; and we find in the ruins of the great palace of Sargon at Khorsabad (770 B.C.) clear evidence that several of the rooms had vaulted ceilings and domes supported on wall 10 to 25 feet thick. The entrance gates to the Palace are fine examples of arch construction, the semi-circular arches being 18 feet wide.

The Romans.

It is not however till we come to the time of the Romans, several centuries later, that we are reasonably sure of our ground. The Romans, we know, gained their knowledge of Architecture partly from the Etruscans and partly from Greece which they invaded (and pillaged) in 146 B.C. From this date to about 100 B.C. their buildings are exclusively of the beam and column type. Some time, however during the last century B.C. they suddenly began to build, on grand scale, arches, domes and vaults. This innovation in style may have been adopted on aesthetic grounds but it was far more probably adopted on purely practical ones. The Romans, like the very practical and thorough engineers they were, having discovered (they may have got the idea from the Etruscans) how to produce an excellent hydraulic mortar (of which more later) proceeded next to build extensively in concrete.

With an economical and flexible material like concrete at their disposal the problem of constructing large arches and domes presented no great difficulty—and for the first time in Europe large and lofty halls were built in which the view was unimpeded by columns. As an example of what the Romans could do with concrete we might consider the Pantheon in Rome built about 117 A.D. This is a huge circular building 142 ft. in diameter, and in height, covered with a huge hemispherical dome resting on walls, 20 feet thick, except for recesses.

From the concrete arch to the arch in stone or brick was a simple step and the practice of constructing arches in all three materials spread in time to all parts of the Roman Empire and from there all over the civilised world. It is not safe however to assume that the Romans alone knew the art of building large domes. We find that in India and in Annapurna (Ceylon) large "dagabas," built of brick, roofed with domes of enormous proportions, were erected before the Christian era.

I have dwelt so long on the early history of architecture largely for one purpose, namely to indicate however inadequately the profound influence of mortar on the world's architecture. If the Greeks had had a cement as good as modern Portland would they have built as they did? How far did the discovery of hydraulic mortar by the Romans affect the world's later architecture? These and many other questions, equally interesting, crop up in connection with this question of mortar.

We shall now pass on to the study of the important building cement. These, with one or two very modern exceptions, are exclusively "lime" cements.

The Romans, either by accident or possibly as the result of careful experiment, made the very important discovery that a simple (unheated) mixture of ordinary rich air lime with a certain kind of volcanic "ash"—really a fine clay—made a very excellent hydraulic mortar. The volcanic material used for the purpose being obtained originally from Pozzuoli, a small town near Naples (and Mt. Vesuvius) was called "pozzolana," a word which is now used generally to describe any material, natural or artificial, which has the property of communicating "hydraulicity" to ordinary lime.

According to Vitruvius, our great authority on the materials and methods of the Roman builders, the standard ingredients of a pozzolana mortar were—"12 parts of pozzolana well pulverised," 8 parts of quartzose sand well washed and 6 parts of rich lime well slaked." (Vitruvius, I might add, was a sort of Inspector of Works and Fortifications in Rome during the last century before Christ. He wrote a famous book on Architecture which disappeared during the Dark Ages but was found and republished about 1,500 A.D.)

Lime Mortars.

A short note on the history of lime mortars will be useful here. The use of air lime as plaster goes back ever so far, 2,000—3,000 B.C. at least. We know, further, from various accounts that both the ancient Greeks and Romans developed the art of plastering and the technique of making plasters to a very high pitch.

In China.

The history of hydraulic lime is somewhat obscure. In India, and in China, hydraulic lime has certainly been used for centuries. I do not know how old the walls of Canton are but they must be pretty ancient. The large blue (or grey) bricks of which they are built are splendid examples of

JAPAN HONOURS EMPEROR

LANDING PARTY CELEBRATE FOUNDATION DAY

Kigameetsu, or the national foundation day, marking the 2503rd anniversary of the accession of the Emperor Jimmu, first ruler of all Japan, was celebrated at the headquarters of the Japanese Naval Landing Force yesterday. Officers assembled in the dining room at 10.30 a.m., refreshments were served, and patriotic toasts honoured. Men of the landing party also saluted the portrait of the Emperor. Later an entertainment programme was staged in the exercise hall, followed by a special dinner at noon.

It had been arranged that the landing party, about 2,000 strong, should assemble at 9.15 a.m. in Hongkew Park where they were to have saluted their sovereign, facing towards the east with bugles blowing. In view of all the circumstances, however, it was finally decided to cancel this part of the celebrations, and the parade did not take place.

The reason officially given for the cancellation of the parade is understood to be that the snow and rain which fell on Friday had left the ground of the park in too bad a condition.

Demonstration in Tokyo.

Tokyo, Feb. 11.—The National Foundation Day, which falls today, was celebrated here with one of the most gigantic mass demonstrations of patriotic citizens held in recent years. Mass meetings were held at five different places in the city and several hundred thousands people, representing various classes and professions in the community, took part in the gatherings.

This year's celebrations were made all the more significant by the participation of hundreds of thousands of labourers and peasants in and out of Tokyo, who enthusiastically demonstrated their patriotism. Besides the labour and peasant unions, reserve associations, the young men's associations, and other public organs participated in the mass meeting and subsequently in the demonstration parades.

Several aeroplanes from the army flying school in Shimoshizu flew over the city by way of celebrating the occasion.
